HEADLESS GIRL CRIME EVIDENCE

HUNT FOR HEAD OF DEAD GIRL

HAMPTON BEACH, N. H., Nov. 12.—Bloodstains on the clothing of the headless woman's body found on the beach were responsible for the order for an autopsy, it became known today.

The bloodstains and the manner in which the head and forearms had been removed from the body convinced the authorities that there is a strong possibility the woman was slain.

Medical Examiner Sherburne of Portsmouth said today in discussing the case:

"The autopsy will tell. Not even the most skilful surgeon could dismember the body without leaving traces of his work.

"The blood spots are the most suspicious feature of the case. It was because of them that an autopsy was ordered."

Experts believe that these blood spots came from the clothes of the person and that would mean that the head and arms were removed almost immediately after death.

Seek for Missing Head.

Pending the autopsy, a big force of life savers and others are searching for the missing parts of the woman's body. Every inch of the beach will be searched. Some believe that a salt case or hand bag may be found with the head and arms inside. Dr. Sherburne said today:

"It will be impossible to say surely that death was due to drowning, for with the head gone, water made its way to the lungs, of course. The body had been longer in the water than Susan Geary's."

Dr. Sherburne will perform the autopsy at the direction of County Solicitor Ernest L. Guptill. All up the Merrimac River, meanwhile, the police are at work on the case—in Lawrence, Lowell and Haverhill. Efforts thus far have failed to identify the body. Two men with missing daughters have seen the clothing, but did not recognize it.

The body is that of a young woman, possibly between twenty and thirty years old. The color of the skin leads to the belief that she was a brunette, and articles found in her clothing would indicate that she was a mill-worker. The position of the body would show that it floated down the river to its resting place in the sand.

A second theory, scouted by the police, however, is that she fell from a Maine steamer, which only a few miles out passes this spot. The body had been in the water two weeks, but was in a good state of preservation.

The girl would be about five feet eight inches tall. She was slightly built, in view of her height, and would weigh about 140 pounds. The one article of clothing missing was her waist. She wore woolen underclothes, a black and white striped underskirt and a heavy outer skirt of a slate color, which might originally have been a light blue. She wore no coat. Her shoes were now and of a large size. The only mark of identification on any part of her clothing was the number "840," stamped in the soles of her shoes.

Every article of clothing was new. Neither a laundry mark nor initials were found on any garment. Her stockings were wine colored.

In one stocking was found a wallet containing $4 in bills, a common boarder, and a snuff box of "Red Top," a well-known brand. It is this latter article which lends to the belief that she is a mill operative, inasmuch as the habit of snuff-dipping is common among these workers.

Her head had been severed apparently by a sharp instrument, and her forearms were cut off sharply, with the bones torn from the socket.

On her underclothing, her corsets, and her garters, were numerous blood stains, whereas, on the body itself, not a scratch, mark or bruise outside of the severed portions, was found.

The body was discovered by Arthur

ANTI-SUFFRAGE leaders in war on Florist Palmer's display of Mrs. Pankhurst poster in Brookline. Mrs. Henry Preston White (at top) and Mrs. A. J. George.

Frederick E. Palmer, the Brookline florist, whom Brookline anti-suffragists attempted to boycott into removing the posters advertising Mrs. Pankhurst's coming Boston address from his windows, stuck to his guns today and declared vigorously that he would not be "intimidated by these social parasites who never did a day's work in their life."

It is a three-cornered war. The antis want the Pankhurst posters torn down. The suffragists, while not supporting Mrs. Pankhurst, say they believe in free speech and believe she should have a chance. And Mrs. Pankhurst's friends denounce the antis in unmeasured terms.

Mrs. Henry Preston White, chairman of the Brookline Anti-Suffrage League, says that there was no intention to boycott Mr. Palmer, and that they simply wished to protest against advertising Mrs. Pankhurst. To combat the Pankhurst publicity, the Brookline suffragists have organized a rally for the Tuesday after her appearance here, at the Brookline Town Hall, and big red-lettered posters are advertising this anti-suffrage rally in the Brookline stores.

Mr. Palmer, the man about whom this female imbroglio revolves, said today:

"I didn't intend to start anything when I first displayed Mrs. Pankhurst's poster. I put it up simply to be sold and would have done as much for the antis. But now that the thing has been made an issue, I'll see it through.

"My first hint of trouble came in a letter from Mrs. A. J. George of the Brookline Anti-Suffrage League, she began her letter thus:

"'I went to your shop this morning to buy a few flowers for a dinner, but I came away without making a purchase, for I was amazed to find that you were advertising Mrs. Pankhurst.'

There were several pieces of demonstration of Mrs. Pankhurst, and Mrs. George enclosed some anti-suffrage pamphlets one entitled 'The Head-Woman.' I read these pamphlets with great glee. They made me stronger than ever for suffrage.

"Professor W. T. Sedgwick of Technology called during the day. He had Mrs. Sedgwick with him. He said he was surprised at my advertising Mrs. Pankhurst. A heated argument started. If Mrs. Sedgwick had not been with him, I should have thrown him out of the store.

"Then came seven members of the Anti-Suffrage League, officially, to urge that I remove the poster. They threatened to boycott me if I refused. I did refuse, the child.

"Now, Mr. Palmer, if you believe in Mrs. Pankhurst, you ought not to object to our going out and throwing bricks through your window.'

"Another lined out: 'Yes, that's just the thing for me to do.'

"Well, they left, and the poster is still there. I will not be intimidated by these social parasites who never did a day's work in their lives. What do they know about economic conditions or the question of the vote, outside their own narrow little sphere.

"As a matter of fact, they have done more to advertise Mrs. Pankhurst than could have been done in any other way."

Miss Agnes Ryan of the Women's Journal one of the leading suffragists, said today:

"Well, you may be sure the suffragists will buy their posies from Mr. Palmer after this."

"It isn't so much that we favor Mrs. Pankhurst. We're divided on that. Some of us approve her methods, but some of us believe her spirit is right. But we all do believe that she has a right to free speech, a right to be heard, and we shall not judge her till after she has had her say.

Wilson Wedding Plans Completed

President's Daughter Will Be Married in White House East Room.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The preparation for the wedding on November 25 of Miss Jessie Wilson, daughter of the President, to Francis B. Sayre of New York, were practically completed today. The invitations already have been sent out and now there is nothing concerning the wedding details to engross Miss Wilson's attention other than having the final fittings of her trousseau and visits to the milliner.

The wedding will be solemnized in the east room of the White House with Rev. Sylvester W. Beach of Princeton, N. J., officiating at a little altar that will be erected in the arched window on the east side of the room. Miss Wilson, attended by her maids, will enter the east room through the main doorway upon the arm of her father. Mr. Sayre, accompanied by his best man, Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell of Labrador, will await her at the altar. The color scheme in the room will be white and gold.

It was learned today that the House will not hold a session on the Wilson wedding day. An adjournment over that day will be taken to enable members to attend the ceremony and as a courtesy to the President's family.

Prohibitionists to Enroll 5,000,000

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—The Prohibitionists today set on foot a movement to enroll 5,000,000 men and women voters in their ranks for the next national election.

$40,000 MORE IN EXPENSES

Another consignment of vouchers showing details of the so-called New Haven "underground fund," was submitted to the Public Service Commission today by President Elliott of the New Haven. There were 164 vouchers, covering a total expenditure of approximately $40,000.

Among the beneficiaries named in the vouchers filed today are:

H. Bert Knowles, an ex-member of the House of Representatives, received $428 from the New Haven in April of this year for "legal services and expenses," and again in March, $300.

The Republic Publishing Company, Mayor Fitzgerald's paper, for advertising, March 25 to December 14, 1912, $3,016.40.

Charles F. Choate, for legal services and expenses in connection with Interstate Commerce Commission inquiry, $10,253.99.

John McDonald, lobbyist, on account of services as special agent and messenger, $150.

R. W. Prescott, a State House newspaper correspondent, on account of services in connection with preparation of news articles and completing list of stockholders of various companies, $275.

Bruce Wyman, professor of law at Harvard, traveling and incidental expenses, $435.

George H. Sargent, a State House newspaper correspondent, for weekly letters in 47 papers, six weeks, $202.40.

Daniel J. Shea, for investigation and conversation with various people on railroad matters affecting public interest, $587.10.

In many instances no effort is made in the vouchers filed today to explain the exact nature of the services rendered by the beneficiaries.

Lieut.-Gov.-Elect Barry at Capital

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Lieutenant Governor-Elect Edward P. Barry of Massachusetts arrived at the capital today and will meet President Wilson and the Cabinet officers. He is the third member of the Democratic ticket recently elected to come here to pay their respects to the administration.

Super-Dreadnought Benlow Launched

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The super-dreadnought Benlow was successfully launched today at Dalmuir.

The typical American girl—is she in New England? Many think so and have submitted photographs of pretty Yankee girls to prove it. See story and picture on Page 2 of this edition.

Mackay Home, but Silent on Divorce

Refuses to Discuss Domestic Affairs or Blake Suits.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Clarence H. Mackay, looking well and unworried by the stories of his domestic troubles, came home today on the Olympic with his children, John and Ellin.

"Is it true that you and Mrs. Mackay are going to be divorced?" he was asked.

"You will understand, I think," he replied, "why it is impossible for me to say anything about my domestic affairs."

Mr. Mackay would not discuss the $1,000,000 alienation action, brought by Mrs. Joseph A. Blake against Mrs. Mackay, early in the withdrawn. He said "no" silent on the separation suit brought by Mrs. Blake against her husband.

Eliot Calls Eastern Missions Failure

Harvard's President-Emeritus Declares Broader Christianity Needed.

President-Emeritus Charles W. Eliot of Harvard, in speaking today in Channing Hall before the First Unitarian Missionary Conference, said the missionary effort and teaching of the last 100 years in Japan, China and the East has been a failure. He said the Far East needed a new teaching of Christianity.

"To this conference I want to say that the soul of Japan and China is prepared for a more liberal presentation of Christianity," declared Dr. Eliot.

Bryan Thrown as Horse Slips

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Secretary of State Bryan had a narrow escape today when his horse, upon which he was taking his customary morning ride slipped in the snow on the wet asphalt pavement. Secretary Bryan managed to keep from falling under the horse. Neither Mr. Bryan nor the animal was injured, but the Secretary discontinued his ride and walked to his home.

Appoints Receivers for Pope Company

Judge Aldrich, in the United States District Court, today appointed George H. Pope and Charles A. Morss receivers of the Pope Manufacturing Company, on $10,000 bonds apiece.

REPORT MARINES READY TO LAND FROM U. S. SHIPS

TOKIO, Nov. 12.—The armored cruiser Izumo was today ordered to Mexican waters to protect Japanese subjects in Mexico.

VERA CRUZ, Nov. 12.—According to Mexican officials, the marines on the American warships standing off Vera Cruz have received their landing equipment and are expected to come ashore within a short time. At the American consulate it was declared this afternoon that this report is untrue.

VERA CRUZ, Nov. 12.—Private dispatches received from an oil magnate of Mexico City today say that relations between the United States and Mexico may be broken off before night.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—French diplomats declared today that the British Foreign Office had been asked by the United States to demand the resignation of General Huerta.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Word from Vera Cruz today says that the twenty-six Americans imperilled by the fighting at Tuxpam have escaped from that city and taken refuge on the Louisiana and Wheeling in the harbor.

LOOK FOR CITY'S FALL TO REBELS.

The rebels have the advantage in their attack on Tuxpam and the city probably will fall before night.

Rumors that Chihuhua had fallen in the rebel hands circulated in Mexico City today, according to dispatches from the capital, but were immediately denied.

Huerta, it is reported, has applied the last element of opposition in his cabinet since the relation of Mexico and the United States became critical. An announcement was made today that Miguel Aldape was a casualty to become a governor. This, it is said, assures the announcement that Aldape will retire from the cabinet.

President Wilson will issue a statement within a fortnight making clear the exact ingredient of this government in one to give Carranza an opportunity to the present Mexican crisis, according to more his claims.

30,000 GALLONS OF OIL EXPLODE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Four persons were killed by flying glass, many window panes were smashed and hundreds of tenement dwellers were rendered homeless today following the explosion of 30,000 gallons of crude oil in the Standard Oil plant in Williamsburg. Five buried the explosion.

11 MEN LOST IN WRECK OF PORTUGUESE LINER.

LISBON, Nov. 12.—The mail steamer Douro was wrecked on the coast of Portugal today. Eleven members of the crew were drowned.

DOCK STRIKE TIES UP PORT OF DUBLIN.

DUBLIN, Nov. 12.—The port of Dublin is practically closed to shipping today. No freight of any kind is being moved owing to all dockworkers being called out on strike.

HOTEL MEN OFF FOR HOME; LIKED STAY IN BOSTON

The visiting hotel men, guests of the Massachusetts Hotel Association, left Boston today on a special train for Springfield. From there they will go to New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburg, Cincinnati and back to Chicago from where they started. The party numbers one hundred.

While here the visitors were taken to Concord by automobile and a stop was made at Lexington. At Concord they were entertained at the Colonial Inn.

The inauguration of a campaign against the hotel souvenir hunter was urged by J. Linfield Damon, manager of the Hotel Thorndike. He said it has become a serious matter, and not only dining rooms suffer, but also the supper rooms. The visitors were well pleased with Boston and the hospitality of the Massachusetts association during their stay here.

Says Trickery Keeps Up Railroad Rates

Less Watered Stock Would Solve Problem, Declares Norris.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—"If railroads were managed properly and would use the legerdemain shown in the case of the New Haven Railroad it would not be necessary, I believe, for them to increase their rates," said Senator Norris today in commenting on the increased wages granted Eastern railroad trainmen. "If wages are not high enough they ought to be increased irrespective of consequences. If the increases granted justify an increase in rates, of course the country must stand it, but if there were less watered stock and the other mechanism of railroad promotion I do not think an increase in wages would necessitate any addition to the burdens of shippers."

DEATH TOLL OF BLIZZARD 100, LOSS $5,000,000

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Slowly restored communication today added to the horror left in the wake of the storm that visited the Great Lakes region.

The destruction of life and property by the furious storm that scoured the borders of the lakes was not yet fully revealed. What the total death toll was between Friday night and Tuesday may not be known for several days. The estimate of 100 was generally accepted.

Twenty-eight bodies have been washed ashore in different parts of the lake region. Property loss was estimated at nearly $5,000,000.

The identification of two of the dozen bodies washed ashore at Thedford, Ont., on Lake Huron, as members of the crew of the freighter Regina, led to the belief that the Regina was the steamer capsized off Port Huron. The entire crew of nearly forty men was believed to have perished.

Superintendent Dugan of the Merchants' Transportation Company, which operated the Regina, visited the capsized vessel in the lake today and said she was not the Regina.

Bodies washed ashore near Port Huron, Mich., were wearing lifebelts bearing the name of the Canadian freighter Wexford.

Twenty-six men and two women were taken off the wrecked steamer Waldo.

Fears of famine in Cleveland that had been felt since the blizzard cut the city off from the rest of the world were unfelt today when trains began to come into the city. The damage is placed at $2,000,000. Should a downpour come now Cleveland would find itself in the throes of the worst flood in its history. The water supply is in an unprecedentedly dangerous condition.

Fifteen hundred babies have been without milk for thirty-six hours, but of other food except greenstuff a fairly large supply is on hand. The milk companies made sales only to those.

The sufferings among the poor were frightful and several persons were killed by snow slides, falling wires and collapsing buildings.

Conclusive evidence that lightship No. 82, which was torn from her anchorage off Point Aldus during Monday's storm, has been destroyed and her crew of six men drowned was found near the government breakwater today.

The steamer Leafield, aground on Angus Island, beyond Thunder Cape, Lake Huron, is believed to have sunk with all hands. She carried fifteen men.

Seven bodies from the schooner Charles S. Price have come ashore below Grand Bend, Ont., indicates that the James Carruthers, the largest Canadian freighter in the Lakes, has been lost.

JAIL HUB MAN FOR INSULT TO SALES GIRLS

A crusade begun in New York against alleged white slavers operating in department stores resulted in the arrest of seven men, one of them hailing from Boston, according to a news dispatch from that city today.

The Boston prisoner gave the name of John Harrington of Phillips street, Boston. Harrison was sentenced to thirty days in jail on the charge of insulting Miss Amelia Myer, a New York salesgirl. Her testimony was corroborated by five witnesses. Harrison said he was out of money and could not employ a lawyer.

"I didn't try to pick up girls," he declared. "I was reading a Boston paper in the waiting room when arrested."

"Who told you to go to the waiting room?" asked Magistrate House, before whom he was arraigned.

"A friend of mine told me about the pretty girls there," said Harrison. "I was lonesome and occasionally spoke to a girl. I saw lots of fellows speaking to them, so I did, but I want it understood that the girls encouraged me to speak first."

After hearing the evidence Magistrate House said that in his judgment Harrison was there for the sole purpose of molesting unsuspecting girls to lead immoral lives. Police Lieutenant Costigan was called and asked what was his opinion of the situation.

"These men are not of good character," he said.

The eleven prisoners were arrested in the ladies' waiting room of a Sixth avenue department store. Eight of them were arraigned today. Of the other three, Harrison was sent to jail for thirty days, and two were jailed for twenty days each. The crusade followed complaints by young women that they had been frequently insulted by young men.

CAMPAIGN COST BIRD $30,000; REPORT TODAY

The campaign expenses of Charles S. Bird, Progressive candidate for Governor, will be filed with the Secretary of State late this afternoon. It is said it will be about $30,000.

The time for filing the returns expired yesterday at 5 o'clock. Mr. Bird's name will be formerly submitted to Attorney-General James M. Swift in accordance with the provisions of the Anti-Corrupt Practices Act. No action will be taken by the Attorney-General, however.

Mr. Ryan, secretary to Mr. Bird, said: "Mr. Bird spent less in this year's campaign than last year. The total amount that Mr. Bird personally expended was about $30,000.

"The delay in filing the returns was caused by outstanding bills, which must be incorporated in the expense returns."

Theatrical War at Harvard Ended

College Club Agrees to Give Freshmen a Chance.

The great theatrical war is ended. A war which has rent Harvard undergraduates into warring camps—the war between the College Dramatic Club and a freshman organization.

The freshman organization, with about fifty members, started out to be a real dramatic club. The College Club couldn't stand the competition, and after editorials in the Crimson and much palaver, compromised. Here is the compromise:

"The College Club agrees to accept all members of the Freshman Club and give them a chance to win the coveted posts of stage manager and electrical manager, as well as speaking parts in the plays."

P.O. Clerks to 'Lick' All Xmas Stamps

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Postmaster-General Burleson has inaugurated a new duty for postmasters and assistants—that of stamp-licking for senders of Christmas mail. Under the new ruling bearers of Christmas parcels will pay the required postage and then the stamps, pre-cancelled, will be affixed by some clerk. The purpose is to prevent long waiting lines.

OF GREAT USE IN BREAKING UP COLDS
Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil Is a Thing Long Desired
Every one knows the value of castor oil in breaking up fall and winter colds, but most people have found it too hard to take.
Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil does away with this only objection. It is pure, simple castor oil without taste or odor. Nothing is added; nothing good taken out.
In making castor oil tasteless, Spencer Kellogg & Son of Buffalo have discovered a secret that had evaded chemists for 3000 years.
Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil works better than the old evil-smelling, evil-smelling kind. It operates pleasantly, without griping, and does not upset the stomach. Children take it easily.
Do not confuse Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil with prepared, mixed or flavored castor oils. It is the only true, pure, tasteless kind. Sold in all drug stores, not in bulk, but in 25c and 50c sizes. The public is protected by the trade mark—green castor bean bearing the signature—Kellogg's.
Made only by Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Inc., Buffalo, oil refiners.

Strike-Breakers at Portland Docks
PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 12.—Non-union longshoremen will be brought here to handle the business, in place of the union men now on strike, according to agents of the Trans-Atlantic steamship lines. Sixteen non-union men unloaded the British steamer Appenine, which was held up by the refusal of the longshoremen to work.

PRETTY GIRLS VIE AS TYPICAL AMERICANS
From now on each day the AMERICAN will reproduce one of the photographs in the typical American Girl contest.
This will give an idea of the diversity in the appearances of contestants who have entered. Not one out of a hundred of those sent in can be used and the subjects for publication will be chosen at random rather than after careful comparison with others. The contest editor does not even know whether the final choice made by the three New England artist judges will be one of those appearing in the paper or among those laid away in the desk.
By these pictures the public will see what a task awaits the judges in choosing from so many types, the one typical girl.
Today's typical American girl is Regina Lingo of No. 83 Anna street, Peacedale, R. I.
Another reason for printing these pictures is that anyone who happens to be in the vicinity of Boston and who happens to come from Dixie, the Middle West or from the Pacific Coast may see how many fine typical girls are to be found in New England.
Send in your photographs, girls; it is more than probable that the typical girl has not yet arrived. There is a chance for YOU yet.
With such an array as is already on the contest editor's desk it is easy to prophesy that the winning girl, the one who will be presented with an oil painting of herself, will be remarkable in many ways.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Remedy

Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This plan makes a pint of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually conquers any ordinary cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, spasmodic croup and bronchial asthma.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pinex is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

The prompt results from this mixture have endeared it to thousands of homewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

POSLAM HEALS RAW, BURNING, ITCHING SKIN

To stop itching at once and drive away all eruptional troubles, apply Poslam, the dependable remedy, which so readily soothes angry skin and heals eczema and all skin diseases in their virulent forms.

Poslam brings immediate relief and comfort. You can observe the progress of healing day by day. The application of simples and other blemishes is but a matter of the briefest treatment.

POSLAM SOAP is the soap of soaps for daily use, for toilet and bath, as a means of improving color and texture of the skin and assuring its continued health. Absolutely pure. It derives its rare beneficial effects from medication with Poslam. Soothes baby's skin.

All druggists sell Poslam (price 50 cents), and Poslam Soap (price 25 cents). For free samples, write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West 25th Street, New York City.

SAYS WALKER MASQUERADED AS PAUL JONES

NEWPORT, Nov. 12.—Boston physicians testifying in the Walker divorce case today told of the visits to them made by Lieutenant James G. Walker. To one doctor Lieutenant Walker called many times, under the name of Paul Jones, and was classed as a good cash customer.

Dr. Charles H. Winn of Boston was the first witness today. In direct examination to Lawyer Barney of the defense, he said:

"I knew Lieutenant Walker and he called upon me for the first time on December 7, 1901, and by mutual agreement the name of Paul Jones was used and so recorded in my books and I learned later that he was Lieutenant Walker of the navy.

"Lieutenant Walker called many times thereafter and he was a good cash customer. I finally referred the case to Dr. Whitney and I went to Whitney's office with Lieutenant Walker."

Dr. Winn under severe cross-examination denied that he had written up his note book from which he had been testifying since he got through treating Lieutenant Walker.

The note book was the object of great scrutiny of the cross-examiner and about which Judge Sears himself asked many questions. Dr. Winn was a witness at the first trial of the Walkers.

The next witness was Mr. Charles M. Whitney of Boston. He said that he was a graduate of the Harvard Medical School and had specialized for over twenty years. He said:

"I know Lieutenant Walker. I remember that he came to my office for the first time on October 9, 1903, with Dr. Winn. He continued treatment until November 14, 1903."

Mrs. Walker blossomed out today in a new blue suit and never looked more attractive. She wore a black chip hat with a white feather.

Boston to Get Two New Steamer Lines

Direct Service Announced to Ireland and St. John's, N. F.

Boston is to get two new steamship lines, according to announcements made today. One is to be a monthly line between this port and Ireland, and the other will be a direct service between Boston and St. John's, Newfoundland.

The announcements caused widespread interest in Boston shipping circles. The coming of the two lines, shipping men declared, will be another big boom to the development of the port.

News of the coming of the line to Ireland comes in a cable dispatch from London that says:

The scheme for all British communications from the south of Ireland to Canada, calling for the establishing a line of steamships between an Irish port and Canada, calling for the establishing a port of the United States, has fallen down through financial difficulties.

It is now learned, the Times says, to include Boston in establishing a line of steamships running direct from Blacksod Bay, in County Mayo, to Halifax and Boston.

Efforts to get a dock and make other arrangements for the Newfoundland line are in the hands of General Freight and Passenger Manager Weeden of the Black Diamond line, which plies between Montreal and St. Johns. Mr. Weldon spent several days in Boston in his attempt to secure a terminal for the new service.

Spencer Denounces Judge as 'Bonehead'

Accused Bryant at Trial Also Flays Jurors.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Eleven of the twelve jurors who are to try the man known as Henry Spencer for the murder of Mildred Allison Rexroat, tango teacher, have been selected. Spencer's shouts, interruptions and apparently insane actions continue. His attacks upon Judge, jury and prosecuting attorney often convulsed the spectators.

"If I knew any legal way to stop him I would do it," said Judge Susser. "He cannot be gagged or treated with violence and has legal right to be present at his trial."

"Bonehead" is his favorite term of contempt. To a prospective juryman he would yell: "Answer the question, you bonehead, what are you hesitating about?" The "bonehead" expression was sometimes accompanied by profane adjectives.

Before court adjourned he turned to Judge Slusser and yelled: "When I get to hell I'll find a nice hot job for you, Judge, you old bonehead."

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

George Greenburg of Chicago is sorrier than ever that he took a lady friend in his car during the reliability contest between the Chicago Automobile Club and the Chicago Athletic Association. Anything like that was strictly against the rules and the offence was punished by a penalty of 500 points, thus giving the run to the C. A. A.

What the C. A. C. men said to Greenburg was quite a lot. Now, however, the American Automobile Association has added its voice to the storm, by disqualifying Greenburg until January 1, 1915. This action was taken on October 29 by the contest board of the A. A. A.

The Briggs-Detroiter Company of Detroit, makers of the Detroiter car, is to be represented in New York State, New Jersey and all of New England by a new company formed in New York city, which is to be known as the Detroiter Motor Sales Company, Inc. Julius Liebten Stein is the head of the new concern, which has engaged to take a large number of cars.

Messrs. Connell and McKone, the Overland agents, who have recently opened a new show room and sales headquarters at 167 Massachusetts avenue, are now well established in their new home and all of the Willys-Overland models, including the light delivery truck, are on exhibition. Crowds of agents from all over New England are flocking into the new show rooms daily to size up the 1914 models. This is the first time that Connell & McKone have had a chance to show their product under favorable conditions and a result large crowds have been visiting their salesrooms every day since their opening.

ADMITS IT IS CHEAPER TO RUN CARS IN SUBWAY

James J. Storrow questioned Auditor J. Henry Neal of the Elevated at the arbitration hearing today on the relative cost of operation of surface and subway cars. He brought out the fact that there is an amazing economy in running cars through the subways.

The road has offered the item of additional expense from the soon-to-be-opened subways as an argument against the men's demand for wage increases. Mr. Storrow today asked Mr. Neal these questions:

Q.—The fixed charges on the subway are heavy, are they not? A.—Yes.

Q.—But are they not largely offset by big economies? A.—I have no figures on that.

Q.—The present accidents cost the road $800,000 annually. Is not the accident cost in the subways much less than with surface cars? A.—Yes, I suppose so.

Q.—Will not a smaller number of cars do the work in a subway? A.—Yes.

Q.—Besides the saving in cars, will not this save wages of train crews? A.—Yes.

Q.—And there'll be no snow to shovel? A.—No.

Q.—And track decay and deterioration is much reduced? A.—Yes, almost to nothing.

Q.—So that the cost of handling passengers is much less? A.—Yes.

Jury Probes Girl's Death by Mercury

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Nov. 12.—A special session of the Grand Jury was ordered today to consider evidence in the case of Cora Towne, the girl who died after taking bichloride of mercury tablets, which she claimed were given her by Fred Flynn, a chauffeur.

Present of Million to McComb's Bride

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—It was reported here today that Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter had given a wedding gift of $1,000,000 to Mrs. Leiter's sister, Mrs. William F. McCombs, wife of the Democratic national chairman.

Ex-Jail Prisoner Held.

William J. Gannon of No. 1267 Cambridge street, Cambridge, recently released from jail, was held in $200 today for a hearing November 13 on the charge of stealing goods and money from Caroline Crawford of Boston.

CLASH OVER SUFFRAGE LED PASTOR TO QUIT

Rev. Charles F. Potter, the Mattapan pastor, whose resignation has caused a stir in church circles, today declared that he quit his pastorate because his views clashed with those held by his parishioners—particularly his views on "woman's rights."

Here is the preacher's story of why he resigned:

"My views are the views of the younger people, but some of the older parishioners do not agree with them.

"A few weeks ago I preached on woman's rights. I showed where the Bible says St. Paul opposed women having any rights, and I showed where the good St. Paul was mistaken. I stated that the Bible should be interpreted by reverent common sense and should not be worshipped. The younger people were all right, but the older people didn't like my sermon.

"The woman of today has changed from being a mere subject to man to a being who is a law unto herself. She has changed from a convenience to a character, from property to a personality. Of course, this roused a storm.

"I am going to try various religious denominations to see if I can find one which accepts me and my views. If I find I will take a soap box and go on Boston Common to tell my views to the public. I will then earn my living if necessary selling aluminum."

Scituate Woman Is 103.

NORTH SCITUATE, Nov. 12.—Aunt Elvira Gannett, who calls herself "more than a century young," observed her 103d birthday at her home here today.

Breaks a Cold in a Day

And Cures Any Cough That is Curable. Noted Doctor's Formula.

"Pour your druggist get two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Globe Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine). Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whisker. Take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bedtime. Smaller doses to children according to age." There are many cheaper preparations but it doesn't pay to experiment with a bad cold. Be sure to get only the genuine Globe Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine). Each half ounce bottle comes in a sealed tin screwtop case. If your druggist does not have it in stock he will get it quickly from his wholesale house. This has been published here every winter for six years and thousands of families know its value.

For Indigestion—Mix one ounce Catarrhozone Compound (no connection with Globe Pine Compound) two ounces Essence of Pepsin; three ounces Syrup of Ginger. Take one to two teaspoonfuls after meals. This is said to have no equal. Catarrhozone Compound, any druggist has it or will get it. Published by the Globe Pharmaceutical laboratories of Chicago.

Boston Gets First View of 'Tango Tea'

Society Will Shake a Leg this Afternoon at the Copley-Plaza.

The Tango Tea, alias the "The Dansant," ("the" is pronounced "tay" as in Tay Pay O'Connor) Mis Boston for the first time today. The Copley-Plaza—without interference from Mayor Fitzgerald, who believes that the tango is not as black as it was painted by him when he gave strict orders against it—has the honor of introducing it.

The Mayor, too, may attend the first affair of the kind, which is scheduled to start at 4 o'clock, with tea of all kinds, French pastry, Sheraton tables, and an abundance of trotting to the lilt of an orchestra imported from Newport.

Arrest Lynn Auto Driver as Fugitive

Claim His Machine Injured Man and Sped Away.

Ardin G. Oliver, a Lynn chauffeur, was arrested today by the Lynn police. The police claimed Oliver's auto struck and seriously hurt Alfred A. Releau Saturday night in Lynn, and that after the accident Oliver continued on his way to Boston in the meantime. He is held awaiting the outcome of Releau's injuries.

Girl in Shadow Gown Is Paroled

A young woman, dressed in a shadow gown, giving her name as Nellie Evans, appeared in Lynn Police Court today charged with drunkenness and using profane language.

She told the court that if she did the things the police say she did she was very sorry and wished to be forgiven. The case was placed on file by Judge O'Brien.

Makes Face Young— Tightens Love Ties

("Lorilie" in Women's Sphere.)

A simple, effective, reducing mask, a faded complexion, do more to drive male neglect from home than any cosmetic suggested. It was one of my greatest difficulties to appear smiling, fresh and sleepless when my dear ones were with me. But have conquered all that. I have changed mental attitude and I now find it as natural to look cheerful. Use curly to partly do a remarkable treatment recommended by a friend, my appearance has improved. I look fifteen years younger than before.

A simple face lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel, proved a wonderful wrinkle eradicator. I still use this occasionally, namely: my complexion I purchased a ounce of ordinary saxolite ran at druggist's and before using this up, a remarkable transformation had taken place. I was the reasoning an insightful mask, erasing a new face, a youthful complexion distinctive delicacy, clear, white and satiny. I merely applied the wax like cream before retiring, washing it off mornings. Ten days' treatment sufficed.—Adv.

JEROME MOVE CAUSES THAW COUNSEL FEAR

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 12.—Counsel for Harry K. Thaw admitted today they are disturbed by the action of Bernard L. Jacobs, W. T. Jerome's representative in New Hampshire, in filing a motion in the United States District Court to have the Thaw petition for a writ of habeas corpus dismissed.

They declare it had been agreed that no action should be taken in connection with the habeas writ until next Monday, and that Governor Felker had expressed himself in favor of this agreement.

It is virtually decided that Nathaniel E. Martin of Concord will conduct the case of Thaw in the District Court.

The Thaw lawyers were in conference yesterday in Martin's office and last night Martin was at the hotel for a long time closeted with former Governor William A. Stone of Pennsylvania, the dean of the Thaw counsel, and Thaw himself.

At the United States District Court the Thaw lawyers will attack Jerome's alleged breach of faith, and will arraign him particularly for entering the Grand Jury room in New York as a witness against Thaw.

Dr. Grainger, 67, Takes Bride of 30

East Boston Woman Married to Late Father's Physician.

Dr. William H. Grainger of East Boston and Winthrop and Miss Jessie J. Costa of Harbor View were married today in East Boston. He is sixty-seven and she is thirty, and the marriage is the culmination of a friendship that began when Dr. Grainger was attending the girl's father in his last illness, while the girl as nurse battled for the dying man's life.

They were married by the Rev. Fr. William H. McDonough in the East Boston parish house of the Star of the Sea parish. The attendants were Pauline Ferreira, a cousin of the bride, and John Costa, a brother. There were present also former Senator and Mrs. Edward J. Grainger. Former Senator Grainger is a son of the groom.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's Amazing Love Story

CHAPTER LXIX.

So short the time this world had been passed From laughing youth to woman's place,
But still retaining all her grace,
Though sorrow followed sorrow fast.
—The Gipsy Maid.

Let any New England mother imagine her daughter in Evelyn's position!

Here was a girl only twenty-two years old on Christmas Day, 1906. Yet she had passed through and was still enduring experiences which would shrivel the very soul of the average girl. And she had agonizing trials yet to be endured.

When Evelyn Nesbit Thaw was in Boston recently in a musical production, arrangements were made with a view to featuring her alone, hundreds of interested men and women went to see her.

In the general comment that was made about Evelyn and her dancing and pantomiming, a remark was made that was deeply true, as follows:

"Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is more like an institution than a person. It is hard to judge her by ordinary standards, because she has been through so much, has been given so much publicity and has been treated more like a girl without any feelings whatever than like the usual human structure."

When one stops to think of it, Evelyn has been through enough to alter a person's very nature, root and fibre. She has suffered and survived distress from every angle. She had lost her own identity in the hideous meshes of the murder case. The thread of her life had been frayed and but lily re-woven.

She was in the midst of these experiences when her twenty-second birthday fell.

Evelyn was a Christmas child. She was born on the day of all days which—in the Christian Year Book—means joy, happiness and peace.

Her infantile beauty waxed to fullest promise. She seemed entitled to all the happiness and fill the earth to life that a fair American girl could receive.

Six years before this present birthday she had come to New York with her mother, not quite sixteen years old, unknowing and unknown—a laughing, open-eyed child.

In six short years she had changed from a happy, inexperienced maiden to a woman of bitter, bitter lessons in the laws of life. On her twenty-second birthday she was the wife of a rich young man. But her husband was locked in a cell in "Murderers' Row for slaying another man. The victim was accused by her husband of having wronged Evelyn. The young wife was confronted with the prospect of telling on the witness stand a tale such as woman never relished before in open court—the last chance to save her husband's life.

The girl who had traveled through those stages of life, and who had many more to face, was no strapping Amazon of a woman, no muscular, tough-fibred creature, built to withstand every shock and buffet.

She was a slender slip of a maid, with large, appealing eyes, a wistful smile and a delicate beauty that was fairly startling, a beauty which was a joy to artists and photographers, but a beauty which had been more of a curse than a blessing.

At twenty-two years, when the average girl is either a sweetheart or a bride, Evelyn was grappling with problems ranging from sombre tragedy to sordid selfishness.

Christmas Day for Evelyn—what irony!

Evelyn's birthday—what bitterness!

There should have been double happiness for the girl, if she had followed the normal course of young womanhood.

She should have been the central figure in joyous family gatherings, the beloved and admired of all, the recipient of congratulations and the general toast at the holiday banquet.

Instead—

Her husband's Christmas gift was sent to her by way of the Tombs prison. Her family gaiety was at the best an anxious council. Her holiday feasting was a forced picking at something to keep life in her body. Her Christmas chat and merriment were reiterated speculation as to the outcome of Harry's trial and a gripping, shuddering dread of the terrible ordeal waiting for her on the witness stand.

Truly a wonderful holiday-birthday for the Christmas baby born in Allegheny, Pa., twenty-two years before.

Life had shifted sadly for Evelyn. When she first tasted the delights of Broadway and awoke each morning to the fun of a new and care-free day, she viewed existence through rose-colored glasses.

A few brief months of gaiety in New York, in Paris, a hectic marriage—then the murder and chaos.

The situation after the murder was no careless one for Evelyn, one which could be dismissed with a pretty shrug and a pout. It was real, downright, deadly serious. The life of her husband rested in the balance. Steamboat lawyers talked with the girl, argued with her, cajoled her, pulled her, frightened her, coaxed her.

Who knows how many times the girl may have been told: "It's up to you, Mrs. Thaw. Your husband's life is in your hands!"

The responsibility was a Christmas present indeed, a veritable shotgun of a gift to lay across the slender shoulders of a girl of twenty-two years.

Totally outside of the question of sympathy for or disapproval of Evelyn, the fact remains that this twenty-second birthday of the girl must have smitten her with hideous force as a grim jest.

The sound of Christmas bells on the air, the laughter of children and elders over their Xmas gifts, the general delight, mirth and joy in the atmosphere—all these could have been naught but agonizing to Evelyn.

Christmas Day dragged its weary length along and the next main Evelyn took up the burden of life again with her twenty-third year.

* * * *

On December 20 Dr. Allen McLane Hamilton returned from a trip abroad. At the dock reporters asked him about the Thaw case, for he had been reported as having rendered an opinion to Judge Olcott that Harry was insane. Dr. McLane said:

Thaw is in a dangerous predicament. It is the first time in the history of our country that a "lunatic wants to try his own case. I think that District Attorney Jerome would accept a plea of insanity.

I saw Thaw's half-brother in London. I understand that all of Thaw's brothers and sisters are in favor of his being taken care of, but he has won his mother over to going on trial.

Harvard Expedition to South Sea Isles

Mystery of Coral Reefs to Be Studied Under Water.

Basking cheered up the mysteries of Egypt and Asia, the Harvard exploration authorities have decided to at once an expedition to unveil the secrets of the South Seas, particularly as regards the coral reefs.

Under Professor W. M. Davis, and financed by the Shaler Memorial Fund, the expedition will be sent out early next year. A private yacht will be chartered on the Pacific Coast and the explorers will cruise among the coral reefs to study their construction and to bring home specimens of the mysterious animals which live in and about them. The expedition will be somewhat in the nature of the deep-sea work which will have to be done.

Billings Must Keep Out of City Contest

Mayor Fitzgerald Would Protest Activity.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—That a formal protest will be made to President Wilson and Secretary of Treasury McAdoo if Edw. Ed. Billings, the boss of the port of Boston, takes an active part in the municipal campaign in Boston, became known today.

As collector of the port of Boston, Mr. Billings is responsible for the official appointments of the administration. Mayor Fitzgerald and Representative Casey both feel that any activity on the part of Mr. Billings would be construed as a violation of the civil service rules, and would be a blow at the Democratic party.

Mr. Billings has been mentioned as being with Col. Theodore Roosevelt and Thomas J. Kenny. Both, this also acknowledged, are opposed to the Democratic party.

Judge to Spank All Juvenile Offenders

Utica Magistrate Lays First Lad Across His Knee.

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 12.—The judge of the juvenile court has rendered the decision that corporal punishment for juvenile offenders is more effective than that of the usual fine or imprisonment. Judge Wilson, the judge who rendered the decision, administered the punishment. The first victim, a ten-year-old boy, obtained a dime novel and was before the court today.

The lad's father said that he could not control the boy, according to the court records. Judge Wilson then administered several spanks in the presence of the court officials. Now the boy will not be allowed to read dime novels, and if he does he will be punished by the court. The boy was also ordered to go to school and to keep off the streets.

Wife Indicted as Shackford Slayer

Must Answer for Shooting Freedom, N. H., Farmer.

OSSIPEE, N. H., Nov. 12.—Mrs. Rosele L. Shackford of Freedom was today indicted by the Grand Jury here for the murder of her husband, Edwin L. Shackford, a prosperous Freedom farmer.

Mrs. Shackford, the police say, does not deny shooting her husband, but claims she was influenced to do it by Wilbur Bean, employed on the Shackford farm, who is held as a witness.

Pick Out the Dyspeptic

You Can Tell Them Anywhere and Especially if You See One Eat.

A Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet Will Digest Any Meal.

One of the saddest sights at a royally rich dinner is to see a man or a woman unable to eat because of dyspepsia.

It is really a crime to continue this martyrdom when all one has to do is to eat a little Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

"Too Bad"

Just carry a tablet in your pocket and after each meal eat it as you would a peppermint. It will digest the meal and positively convince you that food will not hurt you.

One grain of the ingredients which compose a Stuart's Tablet will digest 3,000 grains of fish, soup, coffee, ice cream, meats, vegetables and pastries. The whole idea of this great natural digester is to aid nature to do her work without exhaustion and it certainly accomplishes this result.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are our best known remedy for all stomach and dyspepsia troubles. It is positively wonderful to see the way one of these little tablets will digest a meal. And no one can realize it until one has used these tablets.

"I Used to Be Like Him."

Every drug store sells Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and sells them in huge quantities. No matter where you are located you may go to any druggist and buy a 50c box that will last you a long while. Absolutely convince you dyspepsia can be prevented.

"I Know I'll Be Sick."

Many thousands of people use these tablets occasionally just to keep their digestion always perfect. If you stay up late or overeat, then take a tablet before bedtime; there will be no horrible dreams or bad mouth taste. Go to your druggist now and buy a 50c box and go armed against any kind of stomach trouble.

FIGHT GROWS TO SAVE WOMAN FROM HANGING

Shall a woman be sent to the gallows? That vital question will be the topic of discussion by the hundreds who attend Saturday's mass meeting in Faneuil Hall to protest against the execution of Mrs. Bessie J. Wakefield of Connecticut.

Mrs. Wakefield is sentenced to die in March. The only power that can save her life is the Board of Pardons, which meets in December. Governor Baldwin of Connecticut alone cannot free the woman.

The death sentence has aroused a wave of protest that is sweeping New England. Mrs. Florence Spencer, head of the Anti-Death Penalty League, has led the protest and given it voice. At the mass meeting Saturday there will be speeches by leading Bostonians and an open discussion of the situation.

Plaitions in Circulation.

Petitions were placed in circulation this afternoon by Mrs. W. J. Bilekemeier of Stamford, asking Governor Baldwin and the Board of Pardons to commute the sentence of Mrs. Wakefield to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Bleckemeier said she was impressed to know that "Brattkas" persons had written impropery to the trial judge about the case.

The petitions are based on the ground of doubt of the woman's guilt, claim that she was not warned of her rights in the premises, and that she was never accused of crime before; that there is proof she has been a devoted and self-sacrificing mother, that she is without money to appeal; that "we desire that the history of Connecticut be not stained with the execution of a woman."

Not only Mrs. Wakefield's fate hangs in the balance, but the whole question of the death penalty, and it is expected that resolutions will be adopted urging legislation to abolish the payment of a "life for a life" under the harsh old Biblical decree.

Clergymen in Fight.

Leading clergymen in Boston have indorsed the protest, and many of them will attend the meeting Saturday and speak.

The Rev. William H. Van Allen and the Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham have agreed to speak, as have James H. Vahey, H. H. Patten, Joseph Santosuosso and Herbert L. Baker.

Dr. D. W. Dickinson of the Back Bay said:

"This question of capital punishment is one of the most important before the public. It must be settled right. It ought to be discussed more than it is in public. This mass meeting is a splendid move in the right direction to get people together to discuss it.

"It is constantly coming up and it should be talked about freely and apart from past prejudices. I hope that something will be done at this meeting to arouse more public interest in the hanging of Mrs. Wakefield."

The Stamp "640" on the Soles of the Victim's Shoes Is the Only Clew to Her Identity.

POLICE PROBE IN MYSTERY OF HEADLESS GIRL

Huntley, a surfman at the life-saving station at the north beach. It was lying at a place known as Plaice Cove, 200 yards from the station.

Huntley was making his usual rounds when he saw the object in the seaweed near the shore. He investigated, and then notified Captain Smart of the life-saving corps. The body was transferred to the station by the two men, and the medical referee was notified.

Sweiff Ceylon Spinney and members of the County Solicitor's office, after a conference, decided to prosecute a rigid investigation of the mystery and to run down every clew that presented itself.

Party Majority Is Pledged to Coolidge

Senator Calvin Coolidge of Northampton has a clear majority—eleven—of the twenty-one Republican members-elect of the Senate of 1914 pledged to him in writing for the presidency of that body.

All the Republican candidates who have been mentioned for the presidency of the State Senate, except one, have joined Senator Coolidge's forces, and that one is expected to do so tonight.

Curley Introduces Strike Probe Order

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Resolutions adopted by the Boston Central Labor Union, calling on Congress to investigate the copper mine strike in Michigan, were presented to the House today by Representative Curley of Massachusetts. The resolutions cite that the workmen are trying to obtain a wage of $3 a day and better working conditions.

HOW TO SUCCEED

During the last few years, conditions in all lines of business, even professional life, have changed so completely that every man is waking up to the fact that in order to win success he must specialize and learn to do some one thing and do it well.

So it is with any article that is sold to the public. If it does not have genuine merit or no amount of advertising will maintain the demand for the article.

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy. From the very beginning the proprietors had so much confidence in it that they invited every one to test it.

It is a physician's prescription.

They have on file thousands of unsolicited letters received from former sufferers, who claim they are now enjoying good health as a result of its use.

However, if you wish first to try a sample bottle, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., enclose ten cents and mention this paper. They will promptly forward you a sample bottle by Parcels Post.

Regular sizes for sale at all druggists'—fifty-cents and one-dollar.

Issues Thanksgiving Day Proclamation

Governor Calls on People to Express Gratitude on November 27.

Governor Foss today issued the annual Thanksgiving Day proclamation, designating Thursday, November 27, as Thanksgiving Day. The proclamation reads:

By and with the advice and consent of the Council, I appoint Thursday, the twenty-seventh of November, as a day of thanksgiving and praise.

On that day, let us all go to our several places of worship and there unite in humbly acknowledging our gratitude to God and our dependence upon His bounty and His grace.

On that day, and upon all days let us reverently give thanks to Almighty God for the blessings bestowed upon us, and humbly ask for divine guidance and mercy.

Let us remember not only to give thanks, but to prove the sincerity of our thanksgiving by deeds of charity and brotherly kindness in sharing with others the good gifts with which that day is observed.

Let us furthermore give thanks for the high ideals of an enlightened citizenship and an exalted civic duty bequeathed to us by the forefathers; let us pledge ourselves anew to the preservation of these ideals; that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts may be, now and evermore, the exemplar of a government dedicated to the perfect equality of all before the law, to the freedom of individual conscience and to that personal liberty which only an enlightened people can achieve.

THREE STARS PROVIDE FUN AT COLONIAL

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

It is said that Victor Herbert fell into grave doubts when he completed the score for "The Lady of the Slipper," because it was to be handled principally by three voices of questionable character. Writing music for stars who could not sing was not good for Mr. Herbert's peace of mind.

But Mr. Herbert need never worry about any composition that serves on the stage with Fred Stone. Many horse things might happen to an anxious composer—he might lose his royalties. Had Mr. Stone the voice of a Bonci and Caruso rolled into one it could not be more eloquent or expressive than the busy pair of legs that carried him through "The Lady of the Slipper" at the Colonial last night, at the same time giving a houseful of happy playgoers three hours of the best fun of the season.

The Billingham trio of stars—count 'em—David Montgomery, Fred Stone and Elsie Janis—had enough to do last evening without scoring into high notes, and so, of course, we were spared. As a matter of fact, you never missed their voices in the rapid movement of the Cinderella story that passed before your eyes. Trimmed and fluffed to fit the 1913 taste, Cinderella and her companions furnished a full measure enjoyment for those who haven't forgotten their nursery days and the strange, fantastic people who helped to make them joyous.

New Surprises.

This version of the Cinderella story was sufficiently doctored to admit Mr. Stone and Mr. Montgomery in familiar characters. Mr. Stone returned for a brief period to his scarecrow days, but no bad new tricks. The scarecrow revived pleasant memories.

Naturally any stage entertainment inhabited by Fred Stone springs new and astonishing surprises. It was that way at the Colonial last evening, and the climax was reached when that inexhaustible comedian bounced from one piece of furniture to another, and then departed from your sight by a headlong dive through a huge painting of a solemn looking gentleman on the wall.

While the vigor of Mr. Stone's work could not be duplicated outside of a gymnasium, Miss Janis entered into the performance like a tireless worker from the land of hard labor. She danced and cut up in a fashion that will keep the front rows crowded with college and other kind of youth to the end of the engagement. Her capacity for relentless toil was only equalled by her fellow-worker in the same vineyard. When Miss Janis broke out in her familiar impersonations you detected a more finished article than she gave you on her last visit. In the art of mimicry she is a master—a marvel at any stage of the game.

The remaining member of Mr. Dillingham's trio proved himself an able feeder to his more energetic partner. You may at least concede to Mr. Montgomery the advantage of voice—if that is an advantage in the whirlwind of events that made "The Lady of the Slipper" something to be taken for one's own good.

Fetching Cinderella.

Out of the maze of Mr. Stone's weird acrobatics and Miss Janis' fetching Cinderella there emerged Composer Herbert's only hope—Douglas Stevenson—who played the crown prince and sang for him. Candor, however, compels the admission that even he danced better than he sang. The ladies and gentlemen of the chorus were really all that Mr. Herbert had on his side—and these good people were overwhelmingly faithful to their responsibilities.

If the home must be made between music and—well, let's say a jolly evening, you may give me Fred Stone's legs.

MONTGOMERY AND STONE and Elsie Janis, in "The Lady of the Slipper," at the Colonial Theatre.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat, which clogs Kidneys, then the Back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store, then take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Nurse Proclaims Skin Cure

Myrtle Hahn Says D. D. D. Prescription Is Worth Rockefeller's Millions to Her.

"Ten years I suffered with eczema—three years of that time I could not appear in public. My entire body was covered with the disease. I could not eat. I could not sleep. I could not live. I have at last found the great Prescription D. D. D. My body is clean, smooth. If there were one bottle only of D. D. D. in the world and I had it, Mr. Rockefeller's millions could not buy the golden fluid."

INVESTIGATE GIRLS' CHARGE OF 'TORTURE'

Wallie Catherine McKeon and Alice Doucette, the nine and twelve-year-old girls who ran away from their home in Stoughton, where they were State wards, are being cared for today by the Associated Charities, a rigorous investigation into their charges of cruelty against their foster family is being made by State authorities.

The two little girls, who claim that beatings and tortures forced them to run away and walk to Boston, are hopeful of being placed in a better home.

Two days ago they decided that they could not stand their life any longer, and planned to come to Boston. It took all day for them to cover the twenty-three miles from Stoughton to Dorchester, where they were found, absolutely exhausted, in the back yard of Mrs. Patrick Scully, at No. 54 Savin Hill avenue.

When Mrs. Scully put them to bed she found their feet swollen and their legs marked with black and blue discolorations. They were then too tired to tell their story, and their charges did not become known until they were taken before Captain Crowley at the Dorchester station.

They were turned over to the State Board of Charities, and a representative of that body declared that a most rigorous investigation of their charges would be made, and that if they were substantiated prosecution would follow.

CASSIDY AND HICKEY TALK ON PURE FOOD

How women's clubs can become a great factor in the pure food crusade is explained, co-operation and education was shown the Brookline Women's Club today by David A. Hickey, the New York pure food expert, formerly assistant to Professor Lewis Allen of Wesleyan.

Mr. Hickey urged his hearers to also view themselves in the role of food and to insist on their grocers providing them with foods of known value.

"If you think that your grocer gives you only boxes which have passed rotten and safe as to their purity and nutritive value as foods," said Mr. Hickey, "you can force that grocer to handle only those foods.

"The grocer, in turn, will force the wholesaler and he will compel the manufacturer to make goods of high standard.

"Women should make it a special point to keep informed of the pure food crusade. Read the articles written by Dr. Wiley, by Harry P. Cassidy of the Boston AMERICAN and by other pure food experts throughout the country.

"Where they know how foods are adulterated they can demand only foods which carry labels explaining fully the ingredients. By refusing to buy any foods but those whose purity is guaranteed, women can make pure food a reality."

Pure food received another boost yesterday when Henry P. Cassidy, the AMERICAN'S pure food expert, told the Women's Publicity Club of the Hotel Thorndike some of his experiences in unearthing food frauds.

Mr. Cassidy was introduced by Mrs. Mary Croft Gallup, the president, and was enthusiastically received by the club and its guests.

Mr. Cassidy this afternoon addresses the women's clubs of Winthrop at the Winthrop High School.

A Bachelor's Diary

HE AND THE NURSE TRY TO BE "JUST CHUMS"

By MAX

OCT. 25.—So we had! I had quite forgotten that we started out to spend the day together as two girl or two boy chums might do, and had showed a miserable jealousy at the first opportunity.

"If we were two girls," she went on, "and you had a friend who wanted to meet you, you would introduce us. And it would be the same if we were two boys."

"But we are not," I retorted. "There is no use pretending. Here we were having such a nice day of it and you have spoiled it by being a pretty girl. Why can't you be an ugly girl, since you can't be a man? Why do you have to get that fascinating light in your eyes and that pretty color in your cheeks and look good enough to eat, and make men admire you, and spoil things for us? You women are certainly trying."

"Why, putting her hand in my arm and looking up into my face with a tantalizing laugh that made the situation harder for me, "can't you be a good chum for a girl for just one day? Why do you always be just a selfish, jealous man?"

"Because," bending my head very close to hers and speaking so close to her ear I could have kissed her in doing it, "you are a woman!"

It was then, after we had blamed each other for the eternal domination of sex and were standing still laughing about it, that the man from whom I had run away with the nurse to avoid giving him an introduction to her, bumped into us.

He didn't pass on, as any decent man would have done. He stood there, and I had to introduce him, and when I did it I saw the most wicked look of amusement in my pretty companion's eye.

AN INVITATION

He was going to lunch, he said, and would we be his guests. I replied somewhat savagely that we were going to the waxworks alone, and didn't expect to dine for an hour, and the nurse interrupted me by declaring that she was starving to death and wanted to eat right now.

"You haven't bought me a thing to eat today," with a child-like disappointment that was most becoming, "not even a lollypop."

We went to lunch with this most impudent man, and while we were at the table she completely spoiled what remained of the day by telling him that we had started out with two dollars in my pockets and five cents in hers to see how much fun we could buy, and inviting him to be our guest for the rest of the day.

"I think," I broke in on his eager acceptance, trying to assume an expression that was wan and weary, "I will telephone for my car and go home. My heart isn't behaving quite right."

Blessings on the head of the man who discovered that when a man's heart isn't strong he should never be crossed! The pretty nurse neglected the dessert, imbibed at the salad, and lost all appetite for anything else in her concern for me. When I refused his offer to go home in his car and he had gone to telephone for mine, she placed her hand very professionally on my pulse. If she detected any symptoms of hypocrisy she said never a word, and seemed as glad to get me into my own car, and to say goodby to our host as if this ending had been a part of our day's plans.

It was not till we had left him, looking much disappointed at our departure, and had safely turned the corner out of his range of vision that she began to laugh. And she kept it up all the way home.

"Poor, dear boy," she said when we were nearing our door, "and poor dear girl! No use in them trying to go on and spend a day together like two good girls or two good boy chums. He' a man, and how down jealous."

"And she," I replied, "is a woman, and trieg to make him jealous. Why couldn't you refuse that invitation to lunch, and be satisfied to spend the day with me?"

"Because," wisely, "I'm a woman. Why couldn't we have had him with us the rest of the day and have had as good a time?"

"Because," with an air of duality, "I am a man."

"I think perhaps my old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spencer, who have been abroad almost a year, may return next month." I remarked that evening, putting a cushion under my head and raising myself into a position where I could get a better view of her.

ALONE ONCE MORE

We were in the library alone; Richards had taken Nanette to bed, and I had been trying to read, finding nothing in the paper quite as interesting as the face of the pretty woman who was seated in a low reading chair near the table.

No reply.

"I think you will like her."

Still no answer. "I think," a little louder, "that you will like Sally Spencer."

She dropped her book and looked at me with the strangest look in her eyes.

"Come here, 'Little Girl,' I said, "and tell me what is troubling you."

She came slowly across the room and sat on the lounge beside me, bending over me to adjust a cushion a little more comfortably under my head, getting no reply to my appeals to know what troubled her.

"What's the matter?" I repeated, trying to get her to look me in the face. "Do let the cushions alone," querulously, "it's not necessary to help me like that."

She put a hand on each side of my face and held me that way while she looked steadily into my eyes.

VERY UNEXPECTED

"I hate her," she said. Then bending over so close I hoped for what might happen next, she suddenly changed her mind, gave me a quick slap on the cheek, and ran from the room.

Shall I, Diary, or shall I not, write to Sally Spencer to come home?

How to Propose

BEATRICE FAIRFAX'S IDEA

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

By a most merciful dispensation of the little God of Love, who keeps all our hearts from going prematurely into cold storage, there are no prescribed methods for proposing marriage.

It is not a problem whose solution depends on a knowledge of weights and measures. "Will you marry me?" is no a question that requires deep lore to propound.

A man loves a woman. He cannot tell when love began, so softly did its messenger take possession of his heart. He only knows that he loves, and, it seems to him, dazed by the great miracle, that his love had no beginning. He is as sure that it has always existed as he is that it will know no end.

He wants to take possession of the woman he loves, and he finds neither moonlight, nor rustic bower, nor shady dell, nor a boat, nor a seat that holds only two, necessary to put his emotions and desires into words. A proposal is independent of environment. A man may propose marriage in a crowded street in the glare of the midnoon sun, and the music of his words is as sweet, and the love-light in her eyes is as warm, as if he had set the stage with all the romantic scenery demanded by fiction.

THE IMPORTANT THING

The time, the scenery, the language he uses, if alone with her or in a crowd—none of this is important. The important thing is that he mean what he says and the saying is not a habit.

The man who proposes easily and gracefully; who is glib at this most holy of declarations, has told too many women he loves them, to be trusted. It is a situation when manner means more than words. It is not necessary that he say much. But, oh, may a merciful heaven protect the girl if he doesn't mean the little he says!

It is neither eloquence, nor fervor, nor grace of speech or manner that matters. All that matters is Sincerity. Just one little word. Sincerity! Not a sincerity he thinks he feels, but one that he KNOWS he feels, and that he KNows he will feel so long as life lasts.

If there are those who must have a prescribed form, making of a love a matter so light it admits of rehearsal, let them read what the immortal Pickwick advised his friend Magnus.

After telling Magnus he must commend the lady's worthiness, deplore his own unworthiness, and expatiate on the warmth of his love, he advised him to seize her hand.

"You should then," continued Mr. Pickwick, "come to the plain and simple question, 'Will you have me?' I think I am justified in assuming that, upon this, he would turn her head."

"You think that may be taken for granted," said Mr. Magnus, "because if he did not do that at the right place, it would be embarrassing."

MR. PICKWICK'S ADVICE

"I think she would," said Mr. Pickwick. "Upon this, sir, I should squeeze her hand, and I think—I THINK, Mr. Magnus—that after I had done that, supposing there was no refusal, I should gently draw away the handkerchief that my slight knowledge of human nature leads me to suppose the lady would be applying to her eyes at the moment, and steal a respectful kiss. I think I should kiss her, Mr. Magnus, and at this particular point, I am decidedly of opinion that if the lady were going to take me at all, she would murmur into my ears a bashful acceptance."

If the methods advised by Dickens are too old-fashioned, a book thrown on the mercies of the public last month gives a more modern form.

John Hodder, the hero of "The Inside of the Cup," a minister, and poor, loves the daughter of his most wealthy parishioner. They go for a walk in the woods.

"——— For she had put her own hand out, not shyly, but with a movement so natural it was but the crowning bestowal.

"Allison!" he cried. "I can't ask it of you. I have no right."

"You are not asking it," she answered. "It is I who am asking it."

The girl proposed!

But what matters, who, or when, or how, or what, so that the WHY is all right.

Three Reasons Why POSTUM Instead of Coffee

A Food Drink — Postum made of choice whole wheat, roasted, with a small portion of New Orleans molasses, contains the nutritive elements of the grain, and is wholesome and nourishing. Coffee has no food value whatever.

Has Fine Flavour — Postum has a dark, seal brown color, which changes to rich golden brown when cream is added. It has a delightful aroma, and a rich, snappy flavour quite similar to that of Old Dutch Java.

Free From Drugs — Postum is absolutely free from any drug. Coffee contains caffeine, a poisonous drug—about 2½ grains to the cup. It often causes biliousness, headaches, heart agitation, nervousness, sleeplessness, and other ills. Postum, being pure and free from caffeine or any other drug, may be used freely by young and old.

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum must be well boiled to bring out the flavour and food value.

Instant Postum is a soluble powder. Made instantly by stirring a spoonful in a cup of hot water—with sugar and cream added.

If coffee don't agree, try POSTUM.

THE FAMILY CUPBOARD

A Story of High Society Life in New York

Adapted from the Dramatic Success by Owen Davis

You Can Begin This Great Story Today by Reading This First

THE opening scene is laid in the palatial home of Charles Nelson, whom the world calls a successful man. In reality Nelson's money has caused his wife to become a society leader, so that he gradually finds his home becoming more and more cheerless and less like a home. He enters his house to find his only son drunk and attempting to kiss Mary Burk, Mrs. Nelson's secretary. His upbraids the boy, who turns on his father and accuses him of maintaining another establishment uptown. Mrs. Nelson enters the room just in time to hear the accusation. Nelson confesses to her that the charge is true. Nelson leaves his home and moves to the Alpine Apartment Hotel. His daughter determines to follow him. He telephones to the Winthrops, some close friends, for help. Alice arrives at the hotel. She begs her father to take her with him, but he refuses and sends her to the Winthrops. Alice tells Tom Harding, her fiance, that their engagement is off temporarily. Mrs. Harding arranges to bring Mrs. Nelson to the Alpine Apartments. Nelson hears of this arrangement from Mrs. Harding, but declares his wife will probably refuse to see him.

He goes upstairs to await notification from Mrs. Harding concerning the decision of his wife. Mrs. Nelson arrives and Mrs. Harding's plan for reconciliation seems about to go through when Kitty Claire, the "other woman" in the case, walks into the hotel. Mrs. Nelson and she have words, and the wife leaves, vowing she will have nothing more to do with her husband.

While Kitty Claire is waiting for Nelson to come down, her father, Jim Garrity, a chauffeur, comes in and says Dick Le Roy, who used to be the girl's partner on the vaudeville stage, is outside. Kitty sends for him and they are embracing when Nelson comes downstairs. She says she is glad that their friendship has been found out, because they won't have to keep it secret any longer. Nelson, however, has determined to end their friendship. He gives her some money and leaves her, but not until she has threatened revenge. She gets her chance when Nelson's son comes out of the elevator a few minutes later. She drops her pocketbook, and he, not knowing who she is, picks it up for her and opens conversation with her. It ends with them going out to lunch. In a few days the boy is infatuated with Kitty. At the end of a month Mrs. Nelson and Mary Burk, her companion, leave for the South. The scene shifts to Kenneth's apartment in a hotel. The boy is sleeping after a hard night. The faithful valet, Potter calls, him and says, "It 12 o'clock, sir."

"I'VE no objection! Oh, Potter!"

"Yes, Mr. Kenneth!"

At a time like this even a staid old family butler of irreproachable English training must base a struggle not to act as a man instead of merely "man" to his master.

"Oh, Potter, what a head I've got!"

Potter went out to the living room—secured a pitcher of ice water which he had brought in this very usual emergency, captured a glass and poured a drink for his young master.

"There's music for you," mused Kenneth. He took a great piece of ice from the glass—applied it to his head—then asked the pitcher itself and fairly drained its contents!

"Potter!" said he, returning the empty pitcher regretfully, "you've saved my life!"

"Yes, sir," said Potter calmly.

"You don't seem very much excited over it," reproached Ken.

"No, sir. I do it every morning. Breakfast in ten minutes, sir."

Master and man! Gray-haired old Potter had not forgotten the relation in which he stood to the reckless boy who was throwing away all self-mastery. But he was causing Ken a moment of personal stock-taking that was far from pleasant.

Ken shook off his feelings.

"Give me a cigarette. Too bad about you, Potter. After ten years of respectable service to end as a chaperon."

"A what, sir?" asked Potter in amazement as he lighted the inanimate cigarette-to-bed for his master.

"A chaperon," said Ken tersely between puffs. "I take that to be mother's purpose in inflicting us on one another, in the hope that your example and the restraint of your unimpeachable respectability might keep me from all evil."

Repartee is not for servants.

"Bath is ready, sir," said Potter in reply.

Kenneth tried to rise, then sank back, his head on his hand.

"Oh, I'm a very sick man, Potter."

"You probably have eaten something that disagreed with you, sir."

"Don't kid me, Potter! I can spell Remorse without any assistance this morning. Never again! Do you hear me?"

"Yes, sir," said Potter unemotionally.

"Do you believe me?"

"I should, sir. You have said so quite frequently. Bath is getting cold, sir."

Just as Ken transferred from the realms of white linen to those of white tiling, there was a knock on the outer door, and one Richard Le Roy appeared with the calm familiarity of habit.

"Oh! Good morning, sir," said Potter, in a gravely polite manner, but as coldly that chill and strong disapproval were equally mingled in the atmosphere.

THE WAY OF THE GRAFTER

But what was a mere hireling—a workor for wage—to Dick, the dauntless grafter?

"Hi'lo, Potter! What's coming off?" as a great splash, followed by a wild "Ouch!" resounded to them from the bathroom.

"Mr. Kenneth, sir. In his bath."

Whereupon Dick, assured of five minutes freedom from interruption, proceeded to make himself thoroughly at home.

"Hello, boy!" he called, with a genially patronizing air to his host.

"That you, Dick?" shouted back Ken through gurgles and splashing and sounds of running water and dashing spray.

Dick grinned with a flash of white teeth that gave his face a carless charm.

"That's the rumor."

"I'll be out in a minute."

"Oh! that's all right," said Dick, easily. Then, to make it so, he helped himself to one of Kenneth's cigars under the coldly disdainful eye of Potter.

"Where's the matches, Potter?"

"Here, sir," said the product of long training, striking a match and holding it while Dick lighted his cigar.

"Thanks. Say, did you always work this graft?"

"I beg your pardon, sir."

"Always work in a place like this?"

"No, sir. I have formerly kept respectable company, sir," replied Potter, with exactly dignity, as he marched out into the hall.

"I'll be out as soon as I get some clothes on. Have a cigar?" called Ken, hospitably, from behind his curtain.

"Thanks, old man. I'VO like cigars," said Dick, accepting the invitation and storing up a cigar or two for future reference.

"How do you feel after last night's bout?" asked Dick, making himself cozy with cigar smoke and the rattling sheets of the paper.

"How do you think?" called back Ken, easily.

"Say, I'd have copped on that first race at New Orleans yesterday if I'd had the money to put up."

"Well, a fellow can't always lose," sadly and ungrily replied Ken.

KENNETH. YES, SIR. DRINKING VERY HEAVILY, SIR; AND"—

HE WENT ON:

"AND, SIR: THERE IS A WOMAN, HE'S QUITE MAD ABOUT HER."

POTTER STOOD THINKING A MOMENT, THEN HE GOT THE TELEPHONE BOOK, FOUND A NUMBER, AND, STANDING RESPECTFULLY, THE OLD SERVANT CALLED THE ALPINE APARTMENTS AND, IN A VOICE TREMBLING WITH ALL THE SUPPRESSED EMOTION A WELL-TRAINED SERVANT IS NEVER SUPPOSED TO FEEL, HE SPOKE TO CHARLES NELSON OF HIS SON.

"HELLO! PLAZA 11717 MR. CHARLES NELSON? HELLO! MR. NELSON, THIS IS POTTER. OH, THANK YOU, SIR. EVER SINCE MRS. NELSON LEFT THE CITY, I HAVE, AT HER REQUEST, BEEN WITH MR. KENNETH. YES, SIR. NO, SIR. THEY CALL IT A BOHEMIAN HOTEL. I SHOULDN'T LIKE TO SAY WHAT I CALL IT, SIR. NO, SIR. NO, SIR. IT MAY BE GRAVE PRESUMPTION ON MY PART, MR. NELSON, BUT SOMETHING MUST BE DONE ABOUT MR.

Dick was earnestly studying the "dope" on the races.

"Got change for ten, kid?"

"Sure."

"All right," said Dick, smiling wisely. "Lead me live, then."

And as Potter came in with his young master's belated breakfast, he had the pleasure of seeing Dick Le Roy helping himself to the last $5 bill of the son of the house of Nelson.

Ken came wearily out to breakfast. He started it off with a cocktail. Dick eyed him with amazement. Potter watched the whole scene with disfavor.

"Well, boys, when I left you at about 3 o. M. you sure had an ornamental package."

"I knew what I was doing," said Ken stiffly.

"Sure. But if you'd been sober you wouldn't have done it! Good Lord! Ain't I been there? There's times when I'm doin' four shows a day that I even have to take my dancing! My stomach's that upset. My legs is educated, they don't never get drunk. It always hits me in the digestion."

Dick rose, gave himself a little shake like a dog just from a swim—and nabbed over to the wicker piano. He idly began picking out a tune with one finger.

"Where did you leave Kitty?" he asked casually.

"Why, at her door, of course?"

"Didn't you go in?" Dick was quite intent on picking out each note of his tune.

"In?" To a lady's apartment at 3 o'clock in the morning?" flung out Kenneth in amazement.

"You're one funny little guy," said Dick, adding a few unharmonic harmonies to his melody.

"God never made a homelier thing than an egg," interjected Ken, pushing back his breakfast and coming toward the piano player.

"Dick," he began in a tone of preliminary candor.

"Shoot."

Ken sank into a great arm chair and lit a cigarette. He gazed rapturously into the wreathing smoke—and then inhaled a deep breath of poison to add to the toxins already at work in his nature.

"What a girl she is!" he ejaculated.

"She's all of that!" agreed the one who knew, heartily.

"Is—is there any chance for me?"

"I don't get you," answered Dick—and in truth he did not.

Ken came closer. He leaned confidentially on the upper corner of the piano.

"I haven't said a word to her yet, because I'm not in a position to speak to any woman. But my mother returned to the city this morning. I'm going to see her now, and I'm going to ask her to let me bring Kitty—Miss Mayo—to see her."

He walked back to the table and took a "pepper" of whisky.

"Yours of today's date received. Kindly sell Cassels value one hundred and fifty thousand pounds, and place the same to my credit."

He—and all the world—knew that it was written tersely and carelessly, and every scrap available concerning the Kimberley Diamond in his possession. Then he pored it, thus saving a day, and so to his office.

With this minutes committed irrevocably to the account of Mayfield, Vyvian Greaves's affairs rose. Now, indeed, he was in the whirlpool. Would he emerge high and dry, or the £1 Brands of gilded rice which he longed to enter, or would some unimaginable respectability might keep me from all evil."

Pasteurize All Babies' Milk, Urges Cassidy

The Department of Agriculture has recently stated it had not abandoned the bacteria test in determining the quality of milk passing into interstate commerce. Much of the milk consumed in Boston comes from outside the State. The department's ruling and the question of pasteurization is Mr. Cassidy's subject today.

BY HARRY P. CASSIDY

The Department of Agriculture has adopted any specific bacterial count to determine the fitness and cleanliness of milk for human consumption.

It does, however, use the methylene blue reduction test for milk and announces it will continue to use it. The only change the department has made is that instead of bringing prosecutions on bacteriological examination of one sample it now takes several samples. A fairer and more accurate way to determine the quality of the run of the milk.

A great part of the milk used in Boston comes from outside the State. It has to pass through government inspection in interstate commerce. Much of it is pasteurized before reaching the consumer.

Although local authorities do nothing else New York Milk Commission recently refused to undertake local pasteurization on the ground that it was impracticable. Hundred cases were examined.

Dr. Darling, pasteurization is one of pasteurized as against unpasteurized and 500 milk cans have been destroyed by the Health Department since Dr. George M. Kober, Jr., was appointed Commissioner of Health.

In these experiments 111 babies were fed on pasteurized milk and 111 babies on raw milk. The average pasteurized milk was 4.1 and the average raw milk was 4.6.

The same babies received the raw pasteurized milk in alternate months and were under exactly the same room conditions and under the same medical supervision.

The results of either or both of the above tests would seem to indicate that no possible injury to the nutritive properties of milk for infants results from pasteurization.

It would be interesting to know if disease can be eliminated by the use of pasteurized milk.

Thin People Can Increase Weight

Fifty men and women who would like to increase their weight nine to 25 pounds of healthy "stay there" flesh should try Sargol. Blair Sargol and Resinol Soap (25c.) freely, with the greatest assurance that it contains nothing harmful, but will help to put on healthy flesh and muscle. Judge for yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure and see what a beautiful transformation has taken place. It's not a question of how you look or feel, but of how much you gain in solid flesh. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story, and how any thin man or woman can really add from five to fifteen pounds in from fourteen days up following this simple direction. And, best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food, it turns the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten into rich, ripe, fat-producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepares it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. All this nourishment you get from your daily meals, but Sargol stops the waste and does it quickly and makes the fat-producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and economical.

Druggists sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back.

Takes Off Freckles Quickly

A Physician's Advice.

It is well known that ordinary complexion lotions will bleach or bleach freckles and tan, but they usually freckle in the end worse than before. The reason is that they never remove the cause of the trouble. This is a prescription of a well-known physician, which is said to remove freckles in a few days or a couple of weeks. The treatment is simple. Just get an ounce of orange-mixture and apply a few drops to the face at night, gently rubbing the skin with the fingers. The next morning wash off. Gradually the freckles will disappear, and the skin become beautifully clear and white. Any druggist will supply the orange-mixture, and it is said that even a few applications will usually show a wonderful improvement. It is best not to expect miracles, however, and it is not worth while to buy the mixture unless you are willing to give it a fair trial. It should not be used by persons who are subject to eczema or skin irritation.

George Wilson Leads Batsmen

By W. P. PETERS.

George Wilson, first baseman of the Lynn team, leads the New England League in individual batting for the season of 1913. He leads, however, by such a small margin that it can be safely said that he and Jimmy Magee, left fielder of the Lowell team, are tied for the honors.

Yale Crew Leader Declines to Discuss Ten Eyck Report

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 12.—Captain Dessert of the Yale varsity crew said today that the Yale rowing authorities had not reached a definite decision as to whether or not English coaching methods will be continued at Yale this year.

The committee, which has the matter in charge, will meet in New York next week, he said, and a formal announcement will then be made. He declined to discuss the published report that there was a possibility of James A. Ten Eyck, the Syracuse coach, taking charge of the Yale boys.

Dartmouth Players Will Be Numbered in Carlisle Game

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 12.—Dartmouth football players will be numbered when they take the field against Carlisle at New York next Saturday. The numbers will be large and white, and will be sewed on the backs of the jerseys or jackets of the individual players. The numbers of each man will be listed on the program after his name and position he plays.

Yale Will Stand Pat on Present Lineup

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 12.—What is believed to be the final shift in the Yale football team this season, was made when Captain Ketcham was moved from end to his old place at left guard, replacing Way. Other possible shifts were discussed at a meeting of the coaches but it is the general opinion that none will be made so late in the season and that the following lineup will be the first one: Avery, l.e.; Talbott, l.t.; Ketcham, l.g.; Marting, c.; Robinson, r.g.; Warren, r.t.; Rinn, r.e.; Wilson, q.b.; Cornell, l.h.b.; Knowles, r.h.b.; Dunn, f.b.

Belcher, English Champion, Was Apollo of Prize Ring

By HAL COFFMAN.

As we look back into the records, it seems that all the good fighters of the "knuckle dog" came from Bristol, but whether that was knock or a boost for that thriving seaport I leave to you. Jem Belcher was born there in 1781—about a year after Tom Cribb. He gained the title of Champion of England when he was twenty-four years old, which he afterward lost to Cribb. At the height of his career—1805—he lost the sight of one eye in a game of rackets. After that he retired from the ring, but re-entered it to fight "Hen" Pearce (The Game Chicken), a former protege of Belcher's. Pearce did not want to fight his old teacher, but Belcher insisted and the match was finally arranged, against the advice of all of Belcher's friends, as they feared the loss of one eye would handicap him, and this afterward proved true. The mere mention of this infirmity to Belcher by any of his acquaintances meant a fight, as he was very sensitive about it. He put up a grand, game fight with Pearce, but his bad eyesight made him miss repeatedly and he could not judge distance with the accuracy he formerly possessed. After a gruelling fight Pearce won from his old teacher. Toward the end of the bout, when Belcher was on the ropes practically helpless, Pearce stood back, dropping his hands to his side and instead of delivering the knockout, said, "No, Jem, I won't do it, lest I hurt thy other eye." In England to this day a handkerchief worn around the neck and knotted a certain way is called a Belcher, and is copied from the way this gamest of fighters used to dress. Belcher was a very fine-looking fellow, resembling Lord Byron in the face, and was called the Apollo of the ring. He usually fought around 170 pounds, and never knew what it meant to QUIT —thereby being quite different from present day fighters.

SEVEN MAGNATES IN FAVOR OF PENNSYLVANIA GOVERNOR IN NATIONAL PRESIDENCY FIGHT

SEVEN MOGULS HAVE DECLARED FOR GOV. TENER

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—It was announced today that the magnates of seven of the eight National League clubs had enrolled themselves in the support of Governor John K. Tener of Pennsylvania to accept the presidency of the National League.

It is understood that Governor Tener will take the position if it is offered to him unanimously. Garry Herrman of Cincinnati, president of the National Commission, is the only "hold-out" among the magnates, but it was said today that Herrmann is expected to fall into line.

The American League magnates are pleased with the possibility of Tener leading the rival league for the good they think it will do to organized baseball, as a whole.

As Herrmann holds his position at the head of the National Commission by virtue of the consent of the American league, it is believed that he will yield on the Tener matter in deference to the wishes of the other magnates and to strengthen his claims for a continuance at the head of the so-called "Supreme Court of Baseball."

Herrmann Had a Candidate.

Herrmann "held out" because he had a candidate of his own for the National League presidency—Brown of Louisville. It was Herrmann, however, who is believed to have given out the first news of the election of Tener, and it is therefore asserted that he is likely to be ready to join the other magnates.

The American League's implied support of the Tener proposition removes the possibility of friction over Tener's election.

Lynch May Lead the Federal.

Meanwhile the Federal League has decided to make a definite proposition to Thomas J. Lynch to accept the presidency of that circuit. It was learned today that Lynch can have a three years' contract at $8,000 a year, the same salary that is received annually from the National League.

Lynch's friends said two weeks ago that he never would consider an offer from the organized outlaws, even if he was offered for reelection. But that was before Tener's name was mentioned.

Lynch is willing patiently to bear official insult but is said to be neglected. He all not dismiss the Federal League, but a friend says he thinks that he may consider an offer after he is forced out of the present office.

David L. Lewis denied a report from Pittsburgh that he would accept the Federal League presidency. He declared that he would stick to the Baseball Players' Fraternity.

Await Action of Minors on Demands

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12.—What action will be taken by the convention of the National Association of Baseball Leagues on the demands of the players' fraternity was a matter of conjecture here today. Some magnates who attended the opening session of the association convention were of the opinion that the demands would be referred to a committee of two inside their association, while others expressed the belief that the demands would not be presented.

New Harvard Lineup Great Deal Stronger

Captain Storer, Hardwick, Bradlee, Gilman, Hitchcock and Cowes Figure in Big Shakeup

By GYDE LYNES.

ALMOST on the eve of the final game of the year, a bomb dropped into the Harvard football camp and blew up the eleven that played against Princeton. When the fragments returned to earth there was a decidedly different looking lineup, and one which certainly looks a great deal stronger and more efficient in a number of ways than did the other team.

While the shake-up comes somewhat as a surprise, it was not altogether unlooked for, for several reasons.

The first was that anyone with half an eye could see that Captain Storer was out of his element at end, and that he was far better as a tackle than he ever would be in the wing game. In the second place, Bradlee has been making it very evident that he deserved a position in the Crimson backfield, because of his sterling defensive game, which, as a matter of fact, played a big part in stopping Princeton's hurtling plays last Saturday. He seemed to be too good to be left out of the game, for his work along the line on the defense was becoming an integral part of the Crimson play, and yet the Crimson could not afford to drop any of the three backs, Hardwick, Mahan or Brickley, from the team. To alternate them also seemed to be a waste of energy, hence the new scheme of things.

HERE'S THE NEW LINEUP.

THE new order of the eleven, as it will doubtless be from this time on, except that Trumbull will go back to his place at center, taking Soper's, is as follows:

O'Brien, l. e., Storer, l. t., Gilman, l. g., Soper, c., Pennock, r. g., Hitchcock, r. t., Hardwick, r. e., Logan, q. b., Bradlee, l. h. b., Mahan, r. h. b., Brickley, f. b.

Thus Storer and Hitchcock go back to their former places at end and right tackle respectively, Soper takes the place of Hitchcock, Hitchcock takes Gilman's place and Gilman goes to left guard, in place of Cowen, who had come to be regarded by many as a fixture at left of center. Hardwick takes the place of Storer at right end, and Bradlee takes Hardwick's place in the backfield.

CHANGE STRENGTHEN TEAM?

OF course, the next question is, how will this work out, and how is the eleven strengthened by the changes? The former question can only be answered by actual play and the Brown game will afford an excellent opportunity to try out the new lineup, while a scrimmage this afternoon with the second eleven was scheduled to give the new order a thorough testing.

MAHAN WILL DO THE PUNTING.

AS we have said, Bradlee, while not up to his last year's standard in carrying the ball, is supplying in the way of secondary defence what Harvard lost when Wendell graduated, and a factor which has becoming serious to the Crimson. Brickley and Mahan can supply sufficient versatility in the attack of the Crimson, particularly as Mahan will now do the punting, and as his end run comes from a fake kick formation usually, it will be doubly hard for the opposing defence to cover him efficiently. Add to this the end gain of play and Hardwick's ability in carrying the ball, his speed and his excellent judging of kicks, an added weapon will be found in the Crimson's curriculum of plays. Mahan's kicking of late warrants the decision to have him do the punting.

HARDWICK QUALIFIED FOR END.

LAST year, whenever Felton, the end, was called back to do the kicking, Hardwick was sent to take his place at end. The manner in which Hardwick in such situations covered kicks, stamped him as a first-class end rush. His tackles are fierce and accurate, and Harvard's first score against Yale last year may be directly attributed to Hardwick's tackle which caused the ball to be fumbled, after having been safely caught. Storer had not been giving satisfaction at right end, whereas he is known to be a first-class tackle. Both tackles will now be as well cared for as formerly, and the end of the line strengthened.

COWEN SLOW IN CHARGING.

WHILE Cowen has been playing a fair game at guard, he frequently is slow in his charge, and

Harvard Better Than Princeton, Says Yale Coach

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 12.—Dr. W. T. Bull, a Yale coach, declared in an article written for the Yale Daily News that the Harvard eleven can whip Princeton four out of five times. In part he said:

"Many people are now disappointed in Harvard's showing with Princeton, due, chiefly, to the praise that was given Harvard by the newspapers earlier in the season. Now Princeton is considered Harvard's equal by the majority of the followers of the game. But I am firm in the belief that if these two teams should meet five times during one week, Harvard would win four games out of five."

DON'T SCOLD AN IRRITABLE CHILD

If little tongue is coated, surely give "California Syrup of Figs."

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleaning at once.

When restless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomachache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; they give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative" and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Counterfeits are being sold here. Don't be fooled!

Latest in Today's Stock Markets

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

Stocks were higher, and strong after the opening sinking and immediate advances were well throughout the morning. Metals were not active, however, and there was no evidence of a revival of public interest in trading, in fact was dull in Boston.

In the afternoon there was a boom in Reading, New York, New Haven and Westerns, and from the lowest point advance ranged from one to over 3 points. Reading closed 2 points above the low, Union Pacific 3, Massachusetts Gas preferred was 1½, Lake Shore 2, New York, New Haven & Hartford 2, Chicago & Alton 1, Brooklyn Rapid Transit ¾, North Butte 1, and Quincy 1½, and Dominion was off ½, and Superior ¼.

Sales in New York included Canadian Pacific 2½, Union Pacific 1⅝, Southern Pacific 1⅛, Union Pacific 2⅜, Reading 1½, Lehigh Valley ⅝, Atlantic Coast Line ⅝, Steel ¼, Westinghouse 1½, American Smelting 1, St. Paul 1⅛, Great Northern ⅝, Ohio 1⅝, and New Haven ¾.

Foreign News Caused Advance.

Too early advance in New York was attributed none to foreign news except that the attitude of the Mexican Government to anything else for trade is believed that the Huerta regime is going to put against the United States every obstacle it can in dealing with the world. Bad Prices were higher here in part because of important issues available, a point of more the initial rise was widely a few minutes. National Railways of Mexico second preferred was especially strong and other stocks which advanced materially included Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Central Leather.

The top was struck during the first hour and at the end of that period the range was well above the early level of Tuesday, although most issues had not retained all gains. In the second hour there was another spurt and this brought out more stock. But the prices tendency continued upward. There was considerable covering of shorts and also considerable buying for accumulation Union Pacific is understood to be the trend this year. It is believed that the directors of the road will declare the usual 2½ per cent quarterly dividend tomorrow. There was good support for steel, which advanced moderately.

The upward movement and received its first impetus from London where American stocks were more cheerfully regarded because of the improvement in the Mexican situation. Dealers here expect New York parity abroad and closed with gains for the day with few exceptions. Union Pacific was one of the strongest issues on the British market. Canadian Pacific was bought there extensively on Boston account.

There was less activity as to the speculative situation and traders generally are superficially bullish as has been the case for weeks. There is evidence of large supply of stocks in the hands of the short interest however. Obstacles continue to be had to expand extensive commitments by bear. The severe set of buying business was about the same as yesterday, and the banks was no more active at midday.

New Haven Started Weak.

New Haven opened weak and sold at 77, a new low, during the first hour, but when the market resumed its rise this issue participated in New Haven stocks recovered but still sold at a fair basis was no special reason assigned for its decline, as when almost everything on the list was selling higher unless it was liquidation from the inside. There was a rumor that selling of that kind was going on.

One of the most encouraging market items to bulls was the facility with which stocks were absorbed when offered to take the advance. It was claimed that important interests are now accumulating a number of leading stocks believing that the low level of credit has been reached.

Cash Dividend from Surplus.

The Lehigh Valley Coal Sales Company has declared a cash dividend of 75 per cent out of accumulated surplus and stockholders of November 17 record will have the right to subscribe to new stock at par in the ratio of 25 per cent of their holdings. An extra dividend by this corporation has been expected and this helps its issues have advanced from 205 to 243 on the New York Curb within a month or so.

Copper Metal Concessions.

It is reported that the largest copper metal interests have despaired of starting a buying movement at 13½ cents a pound and are now ready to make substantial concessions to start a purchasing movement. Dealers and second hands have quoted 13⅝ cents cash per pound in New York, and it is said that the American Smelting & Refining Company has offered electrolytic for less than 13 cents abroad.

In London it is believed that the price will have to be cut to at least 13 cents to start a buying movement of consequence. In the trade in this country it is questioned if concessions by large interests will take the price below 13⅝. According to reports, consumers are not responding to price concessions with orders for any considerable tonnages. The price situation seems uncertain and also mixed.

Financial News in Brief.

The London copper warrants market was weak at the morning call, spot being of 12s. 6d. and futures 15s. At the close spot had recovered 5s. and futures 5s. of the decline. Sales were 400 tons of spot and 3,100 of futures.

Independent steel makers say that orders they are receiving do not exceed one-fourth of their plants' capacity, consumers talk of a decrease in their business and are not stocking up.

Gross earnings for October of the Massachusetts Consolidated Railways increased $2,037.02.

The New Haven Road's expenses will be increased, it is estimated, more than $300,000 a year by the award of more wages to conductors and trainmen in the East.

QUOTATIONS

FACT AND COMMENT IN FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. FORBES, Business Editor.

Is class animosity to die down in America?

* * *

Are "conflicting interests" beginning to decipher that, in the broadest sense, their highest interests do not conflict but harmonize.

* * *

Is capital becoming disposed to hold friendly counsel with labor and labor disposed to deal amicably with capital?

* * *

Are the longer-headed among the politicians inclined to listen to reason and to strive after constructive legislation rather than blindly destructive legislation?

* * *

Misunderstanding, misconception, different points of view, distrust — these underlie wars international and interclass, wars military and industrial. Is there not being born a spirit of reasonableness of conciliation, of mediation, of arbitration, a spirit of "get together," of pull together? Do we not see a tendency to listen to what the other fellow has to say, to look through his eyes, as far as possible to consider his interest, all with a view to evolving conditions satisfactory to the nation as a whole? Is not the truth being burned into men's souls that the welfare of one class is essential to the larger welfare of every other, that cesspools of discontent and poverty inevitably prove contagious and injurious to the general health?

* * *

These were the reflections that passed through my mind at the Economic Club dinner in New York on Monday evening, when some twelve hundred men in all walks of life listened to straightforward discussion of currency legislation by such varied interests as Senator Owen, International Banker James Speyer, Professor Joseph French Johnson of New York University, President Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City Bank and Representative Glass.

The gathering suggested refutation instead of animosity, to iron out little personal differences caused by long distance debate, to convince each side that the other is not wholly imbecile or wholly wicked.

* * *

Representative Glass, for example, though he hit hard and kept the diners until nearly midnight, was vociferously urged to "go on" when his allotted time was up, and it was manifest that his blunt sincerity, his homely phrases and his utter lack of artificiality in manner and speech made a telling impression upon the assembly. I doubt not, too, that he went away in a more tolerant mood, in a broader frame of mind—that, in fact, he was a wider-gauge statesman when he left than when he came.

* * *

It was for him as well as for every one else a humanizing experience. Indeed, a deep human note ran through the whole discussions.

Did the Baltimore platform imply mercy the Aldrich plan [illegible] tral bank? O, was it the Aldrich plan OR a central bank? That was the point raised by [illegible] son and discussed. But not satisfactorily cleared up, by the way. When some one pleads put the question to Mr. Bryan and have it definitely and conclusively settled?

Senator Owen—a fine specimen of humanity, with a reputation for [illegible] mindedness and more than [illegible] acumen—had a rousing reception. But his speech did not [illegible] tice—he has often made better [illegible] arrived from Washington—no doubt tired out—only a few minutes before he ascended the rostrum and had had no opportunity to prepare an address.

* * *

The Senator contended that, although one central bank might be all very well for France, Germany or other European countries that could be dumped into Texas without crowding it, such a bank would be inadequate to cope with the banking needs of a continent stretching three thousand miles from east to west and fifteen hundred miles from North to south.

Spirits for Rheumatism

The use of spirits in the treatment of rheumatism has proved an innovation among the medical profession. When mixed with cream of tartar ingredients and taken properly it is said to be an almost infallible cure for rheumatism and backache. Here is the formula: "From your druggist get one ounce of cream of tartar and one original sealed package of Concentrated Extract Sarsaparilla Compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half-pint of good whiskey. Shake the bottle and take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bedtime." Results in one immediately. If one druggist does not have Parr's compound in stock he will get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. Don't be influenced to take some patent medicine instead of this. Parr's is the only genuine Tonic contained in the original sealed package. Others have imitated it. Address the Globe Pharmaceutical Laboratories of Chicago.

Latest in Today's Stock Markets

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

Stocks were higher this afternoon after opening strong and maintaining advances well throughout the morning. Markets were not active, however, and there was no evidence of a renewal of public participation. Trading, in fact, was dull in Boston.

In the afternoon in this city Boston & Maine was up a point and New Haven had recovered from its lowest price and was selling at an advance of ¾. United Fruit had risen 2, and American Telephone ¾. Massachusetts Gas preferred was ¼ higher. Mining issues in advance included Calumet & Arizona 1, Granby ⅝, North Butte 1, and Quincy 1½. Old Dominion was off 1, and Superior ½.

Gains in New York included Canadian Pacific 2¼, Northern Pacific 1⅝, Southern Pacific 1¼, Union Pacific 2¼, Reading 1¼, Lehigh Valley 1⅝, American Can 1¼, Steel ⅝, Amalgamated 1¼, American Smelting 1, St. Paul 1¼, Great Northern ⅝, Chino 1⅜, and New Haven ⅝.

Foreign News Caused Advance.

The early advance in New York was attributed more to foreign news concerning the attitude of Europe toward Mexico than to anything else, for traders believed that the Huerta regime cannot hold out against the United States, even in diplomacy, with the world against it. Prices were higher at the start, a number of important issues advancing a point or more in initial trading or within a few minutes. National Railways of Mexico second preferred was especially strong, and other stocks which advanced materially included Union Pacific, South Pacific and Canadian Pacific.

The tone was strong throughout the first hour and at the end of that period the range was well above the closing level of Tuesday, although some losses had not been retained all gains. Independent steel makers say that orders they are receiving do not exceed one-fourth of their plants' capacity. Consumers talk of a decrease in their business and are not stocking up.

Gross earnings for October of the Massachusetts Consolidated Railways increased $2,037.02.

The New Haven Road's expenses will be increased, it is estimated, more than $300,000 a year by the award of more wages to conductors and trainmen in the East.

FACT AND COMMENT IN FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. FORBES, Business Editor.

Is class animosity to die down in America?

* * *

Are "conflicting interests" beginning to decipher that, in the broadest sense, their highest interests do not conflict but harmonize.

* * *

Is capital becoming disposed to hold friendly counsel with labor and labor disposed to deal amicably with capital?

* * *

Are the longer-headed among the politicians inclined to listen to reason and to strive after constructive rather than blindly destructive legislation?

* * *

Misunderstanding, misconception, different points of view, distrust — these underlie wars international and interclass, wars military and industrial. Is there not being born a spirit of reasonableness of conciliation, of mediation, of arbitration, a spirit of "get together," of pull together? Do we not see a tendency to listen to what the other fellow has to say, to look through his eyes, as far as possible to consider his interest, all with a view to evolving conditions satisfactory to the nation as a whole? Is not the truth being burned into men's souls that the welfare of one class is essential to the larger welfare of every other, that cesspools of discontent and poverty inevitably prove contagious and injurious to the general health?

* * *

These were the reflections that passed through my mind at the Economic Club dinner in New York on Monday evening, when some twelve hundred men in all walks of life listened to straightforward discussion of currency legislation by such varied interests as Senator Owen, International Banker James Speyer, Professor Joseph French Johnson of New York University, President Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City Bank and Representative Glass.

The gathering suggested refutation of the Aldrich plan FOR a central bank? Or was it the Aldrich plan OR a central bank? That was the point raised by Professor Johnson and discussed, but not satisfactorily cleared up, by Mr. Glass. Will some one please put the question to Mr. Bryan and have it definitely and conclusively settled?

* * *

Senator Owen—a fine specimen of humanity, with a reputation for fair-mindedness and more than ordinary acumen—had a rousing reception. But his speech did not do him justice—he has often done better. He arrived from Washington—no doubt tired out—only a few minutes before he assigned the rostrum and had had no opportunity to prepare an address.

* * *

The Senator contended that, although one central bank might be all very well for France, Germany, or other European countries that could be dumped into Texas without crowding it, such a bank would be inadequate to cope with the banking needs of a continent stretching three thousand miles from east to west and fifteen hundred miles from North to south.

At this point a neighboring diner remarked, sotto voce: "What about the Supreme Court?" "A central bank would set up a hazardous bureaucracy," Senator Owen continued. "At present we have 25,000 banks, each carrying its own little drop in reserve. The government now proposes twelve regional banks, each carrying generous reserves. Was not that a long step forward; a step in the right direction? The government was charged with the cast-iron duty of maintaining every bank note at par and redeeming it in gold. Why not, therefore, have the government issue notes?"

is a man's most valuable possession, and it should be carefully safeguarded not only for one's own personal health, but also in order that its blessings may extend through many generations. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA absolutely does make good blood, and that is why it is of such wonderful benefit to humanity.

Thousands of people have voluntarily written letters describing and proving relief by Hood's Sarsaparilla in such afflictions as scrofula and eczema, boils and humors, eruptions and sores, rheumatism and catarrh, kidney and liver troubles, loss of appetite and that tired feeling.

Remember, it is HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA that has this great record. Don't be induced to buy a substitute. Be sure to get Hood's.

RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

It's Me For Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's ardent champion, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, vegetable laxative. No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They coax the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them by constant action.

If you have a "black brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—furred liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant relief in Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Substitute Tablets as nothing.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. For them, 10c and 15c per box. The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, O.

MEALS HIT BACK, DYSPEPSIA, GAS, SOUR STOMACH?—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN

Try it! In five minutes indigestion goes and stomach feels fine.

Time it! In five minutes all stomach distress is gone. No indigestion, heartburn, sourness or belching of gas, acid, or eructations of undigested food, no dizziness, bloating, foul breath or headache.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in regulating upset stomachs. It is the surest, quickest stomach doctor in the whole world, and, besides, it is harmless.

Millions of men and women now eat their favorite foods without fear—they know it is needless to have a bad stomach.

Get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store and put your stomach right. Stop being miserable—life is too short—you're not here long, so make your stay agreeable. Eat what you like and digest it; enjoy it, without fear of rebellion in the stomach.

Pape's Diapepsin belongs in your home. Should one of the family eat something which doesn't agree with them, or in case of an attack of indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis or stomach derangement, it is handy to give instant relief.

This is what Your Father Did to Get a REAL Smoke

Your father sliced each pipeful fresh from his plug. It took only a minute and he got a real smoke.

Master Workman Tobacco has all the natural moisture pressed into the leaf, and held there by a natural leaf wrapper. This makes Master Workman the freshest, sweetest, coolest tobacco you ever smoked.

No tobacco sliced, or granulated at the factory, can hold its original moisture and flavor while waiting for your pipe. Chopped-up tobacco is bound to get dry—smoke hot—and bite your tongue.

If you think this only "advertising talk" cut off a pipeful of Master Workman and let the tobacco prove its truthfulness. You will find, for the first time, what the natural flavor of tobacco IS.

Here's the Grampian

A big, loose, baggy, unlined coat that the young fellows—and some not so young—are taking away from us almost as fast as we can get them in.

The Grampian is Kuppenheimer's interpretation of the balmacaan or English raglan style. It has all the surplus, yardage and freaky color effects of the "Lunnon" kind, but it also has a graceful drape and hang, which is characteristic of all Kuppenheimer clothes.

These coats come with either regular or military collars and most of the fabrics are water-proof. If you come soon you can find your size here at

$20 & $25

Prices Range $15 to $30

A Correction

Carr's Meltons are woven at Bath, England, not Huddersfield, as stated in our last advertisement. This was a very natural mistake for our Adv. Dept. to make, as the majority of English woolens come from or through Huddersfield.

The exact location of Isaac Carr's mills has no effect on the value of the Carr's Melton Overcoats which we are selling at $27.50, but we publish this correction as a token of our intention to be at all times truthful.

Common Sense Makes a Good Voter

INFORMATION Is at Least as Important as Education, and the So-Called "Ignorant Vote" Is the Most Valuable Vote.

Copyright, 1913, by the Hall Company.

Mr. Sunshine, who manufactures pressing and ironing appliances, sends in his "solution of a problem," as follows:

"Dear Sirs: The solution of the woman's suffrage question can be summed up by passing a law that all persons, male or female, desiring to vote and having reached the voting age, shall pass an examination as to their education and intelligence; that those who can pass that examination shall be permitted to vote, others not. M. SUNSHINE."

That sounds very nice, but it is all wrong.

What we need is earnest men and women with common sense, character, honesty, devotion to their children, belief in republican government, willingness to work.

Your plan to keep men and women away from the polls if they lack education would be a bad thing—almost as bad as the stupid and criminal plan which is constantly proposed at Washington to keep out of our country immigrants that lack education of a bookish kind.

The educational test would have kept Nancy Hanks, the mother of Abraham Lincoln, out of the United States—if she had happened to be born abroad. You would not wish to keep such a woman out and have her wonderful son born in a country that would never give him a chance to do his work.

Your suggestion, Mr. Sunshine, would keep Nancy Hanks from voting if she were alive today. Yet, if it were explained to you that she was the mother of Abraham Lincoln, you would probably be glad to have her vote, using her COMMON SENSE, even though it be true, as alleged, that she could neither read nor write.

It isn't education—book knowledge—or a university degree that makes the good voter.

What the country needs is honesty, earnestness, and especially that kind of common sense THAT REFUSES TO BE FOOLED BY FAIR PROMISE OR TO IGNORE BROKEN PLEDGES OF THE PAST.

The test of a woman's voting or a man's voting should not be EDUCATION, for who is to say what really IS education.

The chimpanzee who can eat with a napkin around his neck is educated compared to the blue-nosed macquae, who can't learn anything.

The high school boy is "educated," if you choose to say so, compared with the successful farmer who never studied algebra. But which of the two do you think is really "educated"?

The man whom Mr. Sunshine might consider educated would seem a pitiful ignoramus to Sir Oliver Lodge or to Michelson of the Chicago University or a thousand others.

There is no test of education.

But there is a test of human decency.

Any woman who is self-respecting and takes care of her children, any man willing to work for his living, honest and a believer in our government, is a good citizen—AND ALL GOOD CITIZENS, MALE OR FEMALE, SHOULD VOTE.

The so-called ignorant vote is really the most important and valuable vote, for it is the vote that REFUSES TO ACCEPT EXCUSES.

A woman need not be "educated" in order to know that the streets are dirty, playgrounds neglected, willing workingmen out of work, trust prices high and life painful.

We don't give the vote to men and women in order that they may vote in favor of Moliere as against Beaumarchais or in favor of Brieux as against Rabelais.

We give people the vote in order that they may insist on efficient government, honest government, clean streets, trust regulation, prosperous times.

If this newspaper had to take the vote away from the most highly educated men and women of the country or from the great mass of so-called "uneducated" men and women of the country, it would take the vote very promptly from the educated. For they DO NOT NEED THE VOTE AS MUCH AS THE UNEDUCATED NEED IT.

And the educated, on the whole, do not vote as consistently or as intelligently as the uneducated.

It is not the educated gentleman with twenty thousand a year who compels public officers to reduce the price of gas or clean the streets in the poor quarter or provide the children with playgrounds. The "ignorant" men and women who live in the poor quarter and who create the children are the voters that get the work done.

They are the important voters.

That is why it is preposterous and stupid to talk of an educational test for immigrants and equally preposterous to talk of an educational test for voters.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

COMMENDS EDITORIAL ON MAYOR FITZGERALD

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I have been wondering recently how long it would be before the newspapers of Boston would, editorially, give to Mayor Fitzgerald the commendation he so richly deserves.

I congratulate the AMERICAN for its editorial today, and join it in the hope that Boston will have, for four years more, the services of the very best mayor in America.

CLARENCE N. DAVIS.

BICHLORIDE OF MERCURY

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

The frequency with which the newspapers are printing reports of persons dying from having taken bichloride of mercury tablets by mistake certainly should lead to some drastic laws to reduce the number of those cases. Why can't the State or nation enact laws which would compel the manufacturers of poison tablets to press the tablets into a new and original shape when they are being made? A uniform shape, other than that of the harmless tablet, could be adopted, and if that was done a person would have to be lacking in sense of touch as well as sight to take the poison tablets. If a law of that kind cannot be made and enforced then it is at least, due the public that something be done to stop the almost unrestricted sale of bichloride of mercury tablets. At present, this is the most widely sold form of poison and druggists say the sales are increasing. The very case shows that something must be done and done at once.

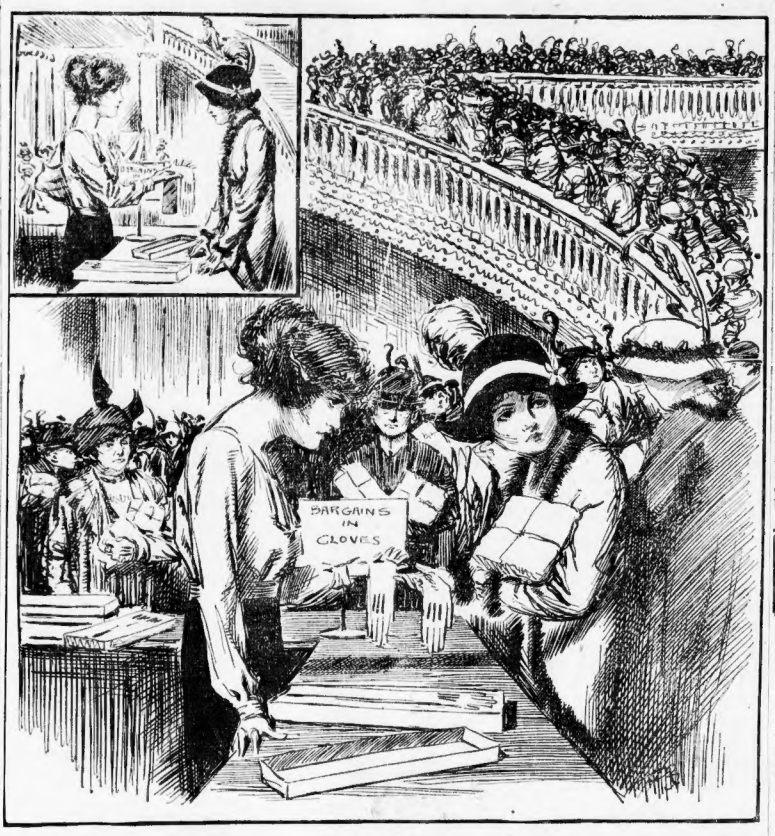
Look Ahead---Study This Picture



The little picture above shows how you can do your Christmas shopping TODAY IN COMFORT AND ECONOMICALLY BY GETTING THE BARGAINS.

The big picture shows how the shopping must be done in the last days of the dreadful Christmas rush.

Be considerate of the hard-working people in the shops and of yourself. Do your buying now comfortably, economically, deliberately and be kind to others.

At Last It Is Settled; Avery Street Is to Be Widened

But Much More Remains to Be Done for the Improvement of Boston's Thoroughfares—What Has Become of the City Planning Committees?

Tardily, but still not too late, the City Council has yielded to the advice of the Mayor, the Boston AMERICAN and the business men who saw that the widening of Avery street was necessary to the comfort of hundreds of thousands of our people and to the growth of that district where lie the highest real estate values in Boston.

It has been a source of wonder to the AMERICAN and others that the City Council should have been so obdurate in a matter so obvious.

It is rare indeed that any city can make a mistake in widening its streets to render them comfortable for traffic. Narrow, crooked highways retard progress, and the city which stupidly retains them soon finds itself out of the line of progress, watching other cities pass it.

It is exasperating to notice the slow motion we are making towards an adequate city planning which will give us modern thoroughfares. What has become of the committees on this all important problem?

The jealousy and timidity of the suburban towns have embarrassed the excellent scheme which Edward A. Filene's Commission on City Planning had worked out. What plan is now proposed in its place?

The Chamber of Commerce and the Public Improvement Association have had the matter in hand for some time. The fact ought not to escape these organizations that there is no more important work for their committees than that of giving Boston the right direction for its future development. The coming session of the Legislature ought to be presented with a sound and COURAGEOUS city planning bill.

The "Downtrodden English Woman"

By REV. C. F. AKED, D. D.

"WE do not need militant methods in America. It is different in England."

The formula has been repeated from San Francisco to New York in the course of discussions aroused by Mrs. Pankhurst's visit. What is the "it" which is different in England? In what respect do British laws press more hardly upon British women than American laws upon American women in the States where women are still unenfranchised?

This matter is important. Here are American women pouring money into Mrs. Pankhurst's hands for the purpose of financing militant methods in England, alleging as the reason why they themselves will not become "militant" in America while they want women in England to burn houses, wreck trains, throw hatchets and explode dynamite bombs—alleging as the reason why they should keep themselves safe while other women endure imprisonment and torture—that "the laws are different in England." It is a fair question: What laws?

With one reply the distinguished ladies referred to will be ready: The divorce laws are unequal and bad. They are. About this there is no dispute. An Englishman can divorce his wife for an offence for which she cannot divorce him. And in my view this admits of no defence.

Yet the explanation is easy. The Englishman is consistent and he has the courage—it may be, the brutal courage—of his convictions. The law to which the American man submits is better than the man's own convictions. It is the secret belief of nine out of ten men in America that there is one law of morality for men and another for women. He condones in himself and in his own son that which he would neither condone nor tolerate in his wife or his daughter. He has to submit to equal divorce laws; but the average man is easily confident that what is for his wife a crime is for himself a trivial affair.

The Englishman expresses in his law his deep convictions of the generations. He holds that adultery is a worse offence when committed by a wife than when committed by a husband. And so he makes his divorce law unequal.

* * *

Yet the sense of humor is not extinct in America. And it will not be seriously held that this inequality in the laws of divorce constitutes that "difference" which justifies incendiarism and outrage and a recourse to dynamite bombs!

What other laws can be quoted? Up to the present moment, in all the utterances of all the American sympathizers with English militants which have come under my notice, not a second instance has been named. Is there another?

* * *

The simple fact is that in Great Britain the woman possesses political power far greater than that possessed in any part of America other than the nine woman suffrage States and Illinois. This is not generally known, but it is a fact.

Franchise laws are not the same in different parts of Great Britain any more than they are uniform in all parts of this country. So a little care must be exercised in stating them. But broadly they come to this:

In Great Britain women vote in the election of District Councils, both rural and urban; Parish Councils, County Councils, Boards of Guardians, Town and City Councils. Unmarried women may be elected to these bodies; they may sit as City Councilors or County Councilors; they may be Aldermen; they may be Mayors of cities.

In London marriage does not disqualify. How is this, as compared with the thirty-nine States of the American Union which have not enfranchised their women?

One of the most efficient members of the City Council of Manchester is Miss Margaret Ashton. Where is the woman member of the New York Board of Aldermen?

Women vote if they possess the qualification which entitles men to vote. There is no such thing as manhood suffrage in England. There are some millions of British men who have no vote. There are innumerable "qualifications," but—again broadly—what qualifies a man to vote is the fact that he is a householder—not the fact that he is a male person of adult age. And British law does not allow two votes for one "qualification;" that is to say, the same tenancy cannot entitle two persons to vote. So, if the house is in the name of the husband, he has the vote. If it is in the name of the wife, she has it.

* * *

Women cannot vote for the election of members of Parliament. It is for this, the Parliamentary franchise, that they are fighting. They might have been voting today but for Mrs. Pankhurst and the militants.

The militants began their work more than seven years ago. What are they likely to gain? Mr. E. V. Lucas, in his "Mr. Ingleside," represents a member of Parliament as suggesting mildly that women who "persecute and vilify and assault statesmen are not providing the best credentials as responsible electors." And this M. P., or Mr. Lucas for him, puts the objection clearly:

"In my opinion—and you can disregard it, for it is only the opinion of a man—they had been waiting splendidly, and were just beginning to reap the harvest of their quiet efficiency and good sense, when the fruit was dashed from their hands by the impatient high spirits of the younger faction—the Maenad Malcontents, shall I call them? I know of mothers who for years have steadily been proving their right to vote, whose own daughters fresh from school have ruined their chances for years to come."
